Current Attacks May Be Expected Red Offensive

TOKYO (Thursday) (AP)—Communist troops poured out of the hills in attacks all along the eastern front of Korea Wednesday night.

It was too early to tell whether it was the start of the expected Red offensive.

The Reds struck from Chuncheon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, eastward to the sea of Japan.

The attacks came not long after Maj. Gen. William Hoge, commander of the U.S. 9th Corps, predicted the Red offensive would open Friday.

The general said if the Chinese follow their "previous pattern of attacking on the full moon, the blow should come soon. The moon comes full on the 15th of the month. That gives him two days."

(The world almanac and the U.S. coast and geodetic survey say the full moon comes next Monday.)

Allied intelligence officers said a striking force of 380,000 Reds was ready for the signal to begin their biggest offensive of the war.

PATROLS PROBE
Allied patrols reaching across the 10-mile-wide no-man's-land also probed continually into Chinese build-ups. Deeper penetrations ran into artillery fire from self-propelled guns.

A divisional spokesman said increasing numbers of Red prisoners were being brought back, indicating a weakening of Communist morale.

"Peiping Radio sought to bolster Chinese troops by assuring them they have shown that the 'United States is nothing but a paper tiger.' The broadcast said the war will continue until 'we drive the mad, shameless American imperialists completely out of Korea.'"

Allied troops have had time in a 2½-week lull to thoroughly bolster their defences. A division spokesman said the Allied forces are probably in the best positions they have manned yet. He said they're confident and in good spirits.

DANNY KAYE STARS IN 'ONE WOMAN'S DAY'

Danny Kaye, America's laugh-maker No. 1, followed British Columbia's Madam Speaker, Victoria's Nancy Hodges on the BBC's Festival of Britain show in London a few days ago. He shares space with other celebrities in Mrs. Hodges' "One Woman's Day" which resumes its regular spot on page 2 in today's Times.

In sequence are other incidents and personalities, viewed from the preferred position of the Commonwealth's first Madam Speaker, and described to the home folks in her own chatty style exclusively in the Times.

Succeeding columns will present a varied human panorama, from an ebullient Cockney to personages of the Garter Ceremony in Windsor's St. George's Chapel.

CAN HALT WAR IN KOREA, SAYS CHIANG

TAIPEH (AP)—Chiang Kai-shek today told the Associated Press that his Nationalist forces on Formosa, by a body punch to the mainland, can halt Chinese Communist aggression in Korea.

"Once a counter-offensive from Formosa starts," said the president of the Chinese Nationalists, "then Chinese Communist aggression in Korea will end, at least the Chinese Communists will not be able to start any new offensive in Korea."

The generalissimo has an estimated 500,000 men in training on this island bastion.

Hot Argument Breaks Up Senate Inquiry

Members Disagree On Bradley Bail

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate inquiry into Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal was broken off today by a hot argument over whether Gen. Omar Bradley should tell about his private talks with President Truman.

Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, refused yesterday to tell what he and Truman said to each other prior to the firing of the Far Eastern Commander.

Today, the White House said Truman does not want Bradley to do so.

Some Republicans on the inquiry panel—made up of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees—were insistent that Bradley should tell.

While Bradley sat silently in the witness chair for more than two hours today, the Senators argued heatedly.

In the upshot: 1. Bradley was excused as a witness until Monday.

2. The Senators agreed to vote tomorrow on whether to insist that Bradley tell them about his conference with the President.

WANTS LIMITED WAR
Before the argument broke out, Bradley had strongly advocated sticking to the administration policy of fighting a limited war in Korea while he said no one will promise it will produce decisive results, he lined up with Defence Secretary Marshall in holding out hope that if the Communists are badly mauled they may agree to a negotiated peace.

Indications were the Republicans would agree to postpone any showdown on a ruling by Chairman Russell that Bradley did not need to answer a question by Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep., Wis.), as to what was said at the White House meeting.

Wiley said any recommendation to start contempt proceedings—provided Bradley still refuses to answer—will be up to all 12 Republican members of the inquiry.

A third honorary doctorate will be awarded at the first-day ceremony to Isabel S. MacInnes, retired U.B.C. languages professor.

It will be Chancellor Hamber's last university convocation. Mr. Hamber is retiring from office after a six-year term, the maximum under the U.B.C. constitution. He will be succeeded by Brig. Sherwood Lett, Vancouver lawyer.

The 1,359 being presented this year represent a decrease of more than 600 from last year's record class of 2,000.

FLARE-UP OVER SCOT GAMES

Ald. Margaret Christie's Scottish ire was roused today when the parks committee recommended Highland Games Association be granted use of Macdonald Park July 28, if it deposited $350 against any cost to the city.

"What do you want $350 for?" she demanded. "Have you any idea of the number of people the games bring into town? Last year they made no money but they brought thousands here."

Arrest Killer; Premier Hides In Parliament

FROM CP, AP, BUP AND REUTERS DISPATCHES

TEHRAN, Iran (CP)—A Moslem terrorist was arrested today after a gun battle with police, who said he was plotting to assassinate Premier F. Mohammed Mossadegh.

The Moslem was identified as Abolghasem Rafiee, No. 2 man in Fedayan Islam, the fanatical religious secret society which is held responsible for the slaying of former Premier Ali Razmara in March.

Premier Mossadegh has taken refuge behind locked doors in Parliament, fearing threats against his life.

Police quoted Rafiee as saying "Mossadegh is lucky I am caught. Otherwise he would have been shot within the next two or three days."

URGES MODERATION
In Washington, State Secretary Dean Acheson again urged Britain and Iran to exercise moderation in their dispute over the nationalization of the Iranian oil industry.

At the same time the United States is believed to have conceded Britain's right to protect British lives and property if these are endangered.

A hint of the use of force has been achieved by Britain without any direct official link with the critical situation in Iran.

The war office—in what is now regarded generally as an "inspired leak"—let out the news that the 16th Independent Parachute Brigade group was being put on the alert.

But putting the paratroopers on an emergency footing was quickly linked by most observers with Britain's resistance of Iran's oil nationalization.

The use of troops, however, is regarded by most British officials as a remote possibility.

The British proposals were understood to offer higher royalties for Iranian oil and "some scheme" which would help to improve Iran's economy.

The British plan "aims" for formation of one company, to be run exclusively by Iran, which would control oil production.

A second company to be operated jointly by Britain and Iran would refine and market the oil.

Failing an agreement on these lines, it was understood Britain demanded adequate compensation for the seized companies and guarantees that the west would continue to receive the majority of Iranian oil.

She also wins the B'Nai B'Rith Hillel Foundation $125 scholarship for outstanding graduates, and the Ahepa prize of $100 for proficiency in Greek.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William George Bryson, 2072 Cadboro Bay Road, Bettye's cloistered existence while attending university is strictly involuntary.

She has been living at 4685 West Eleventh Street in Vancouver, a scant block from the western boundaries of the city.

Her boy friend, Ted Ramage, also graduating today in classics, lives at 3311 East 45th—close to Vancouver's eastern extremity.

Destroyer Athabaskan To Arrive On Time Despite Stop At Rupert

The destroyer Athabaskan was steaming down coast this afternoon, heading for her home port of Esquimalt after a short stop last night at Prince Rupert.

The Athabaskan made her unscheduled stop to disembark AB. Raymond Dean, Toronto, stricken two days previously with acute appendicitis.

Following an operation, Dean was reported doing well today.

Hundreds of Prince Rupert residents lined the waterfront to cheer the Athabaskan on her arrival last night and bid her adieu this morning.

The destroyer is scheduled to arrive at Esquimalt at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. She will tie up at H.M.C.S. Naden.

Immediate relatives of men aboard ship will be admitted through the main gate to Naden at 1:30 p.m. Parking space will be provided inside the naval barracks. Members of the general public will be admitted, at the same time, through the gate to the government drydock, immediately alongside the Naden entrance. Parking space will be provided.

Barricades will be erected to facilitate berthing of the destroyer, but once the ship is alongside they will be removed.

Those intending to be on hand for the ship's arrival are warned that there must be no smoking on the jetty and parents and children are advised to take particular care because of danger in drydock area.

Partisans Fight Near Capital

ROME (UP)—Anti-Communist partisans revolting against Albania's Red government because of Moscow-created food shortages have fought to within 50 miles of the capital of Tirana, Italian sources said today.

It was the first report that the partisan army, said to number 6,000 men, had carried its revolt near the capital.

CITY GIRL'S UNIQUE FORMULA

How To Win Governor-General's Medal: Stay Away From The Boys

A petite, blue-eyed little genius has a unique formula for success... "stay away from boys."

How well the system works was illustrated today when a Victoria girl, Elizabeth Agnes Emily Bryson, who likes to be called "Bettye" (the sure you put an "e" on the end), won the Governor-General's Gold Medal for heading the U.B.C. 1950-51 graduating class for the B.A. degree.

She also wins the B'Nai B'Rith Hillel Foundation $125 scholarship for outstanding graduates, and the Ahepa prize of $100 for proficiency in Greek.

SHIP-SHORE BROADCAST WILL FEATURE ATHABASKAN ARRIVAL

The Victoria Daily Times today completed special arrangements with Station CKDA to broadcast Thursday afternoon a description of the Esquimalt homecoming of the destroyer Athabaskan from the Korean war zone.

The Daily Times and the radio station originated the feature when the destroyer Sioux returned to base in February and the broadcast proved so popular that similar broadcasts was made in April when the Cayuga returned.

The Athabaskan broadcast will originate at sea at about noon and will continue until the ship ties up at Naden at 2:30. Broadcasters Don Wilson, Tom O'Neil and Dave Hill will report from the ship, while Gordon Reid will interview waiting wives and families at the docks.

The Daily Times will have its reporters and photographers covering the ship's arrival, and a full account of the event will be carried by this paper in Friday's editions.

Full-Scale War Looms For Unions

VANCOUVER (CP)—A full-scale organizational war in British Columbia is looming between affiliates of the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress.

Charges of "raiding" by the C.C.L. have been made by W. H. Sands, president of the Okanagan Trades and Labor Council.

Sands charged that the Okanagan Fruit Workers' Union had already been raided by the C.C.L. United Packinghouse Workers under International Representative Bill Symington.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said today negotiations are nearly complete with four groups of firms that will make special studies to determine whether private companies can produce atomic power for industry and cities.

U.S. Makes Loan Of Food To India

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Senate today passed a bill authorizing 2,000,000 tons of food for hunger-ridden India after amending it to make the entire shipment on a loan basis.

The House of Representatives may take up a similar bill tomorrow. Its fate there is uncertain.

Opposition had developed against the proposal that a part of the shipment should be a donation.

Iraqi Guards Help Syrians

BAGHDAD (AP)—Premier Nuri Pasha Al Said of Iraq announced in parliament today units of the Iraqi guard with anti-aircraft guns and planes have moved into Syria to aid Syrians against alleged Israeli aggression.

The premier said the Syrian government had requested "what ever aid possible against Zionist raids."

(At Damascus, Haj Amin El Hussein, grand mufti of Jerusalem, asked the Arab League's political committee to undertake mobilization of all Palestinian Arab refugees to support Syria.)

Estevan Crew Back At Work After Walkout

Thirty-nine crew members of the Canadian Government light-house tender Estevan returned to work at noon today, after staging a four-hour walkout in protest against delays in receiving their pay cheques from the Department of Transport office here.

Crew members returned to their ship undergoing repairs at the Point Ellice Bridge V.M.D. shops, after they were assured by T. E. Morrison, Department of Transport agent here, that they would receive their pay cheques as soon as they returned to their jobs.

The crew at the same time launched a protest with the B.C. Labor Board. "The board was powerless to act as the ship is under Federal jurisdiction."

The ship's officers were the only ones who remained aboard the ship when the men did not appear for work this morning.

Mr. Morrison said the cheques were delayed because his department was understaffed. The pay dates are the first and fifteenth of each month.

Mr. Morrison termed the walkout as "thoughtless."

'Highbrow' Park Concerts Debated

Parks Administrator Herb Warren was given the green light on arrangements for summer concerts in Beacon Hill Park by the parks committee today, but not before a few comments were made on "highbrows" and "corn huskers."

Mr. Warren urged "music on a higher level."

"There is a cosmopolitan crowd," reminded Ald. William Pinfold. "You can't be too highbrow."

When it came to the "corn husking" programs City Manager Cecil Wyatt observed that even students of the classical tradition could enjoy them.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

LONDON—

'IN TOWN TONIGHT'

TWENTY-FOUR hours after we arrived in London I was appearing on the air, sandwiched in between such celebrities as Sir Ralph Richardson, the eminent British actor and film star, and Danny Kaye, the American comedian of movie fame.

No one was more surprised than I when a message greeted me at Liverpool, on my arrival there in the Empress of Canada, that the BBC requested my presence on the 45-minute program of the Festival of Britain radio feature, "In Town Tonight." But it proved to be an experience I wouldn't have missed for worlds.

GHOST-RIDDEN RUINS

TO BEGIN WITH, it is an interesting experience to visit British Broadcasting House which stands, by the way, within a stone's throw of Queen's Hall, Langham Place. Once the home of British concert music, Queen's Hall is now only a battered shell, gutted by Nazi bombs. On its blackened outer walls are lines of posters heralding musical events in London, most of them featuring celebrated artists. And as I passed them, nostalgic memories of long-departed musicians whom I heard in that famous hall in my youth came to mind. It was as if their ghosts still haunted the charred and blackened ruins, restlessly roaming in the shadow of the modern home of the modern musical medium—the BBC.

BBC STUDIO

IN THE STUDIO at the palatial home of the British Broadcasting Corporation was assembled an excited audience, eagerly awaiting the arrival of the two great artists of the stage and screen. Sir Ralph, when he arrived, was wearing theatrical make-up and the brilliant uniform of a Czarist Russian officer, all ready for his appearance, 15 minutes later, on the stage of the Aldwych Theatre in the role of the hero of the Chekhov play, "The Three Sisters."

Immediately he arrived, in a few moments before he went on the air, he was literally besieged by the autograph hunters who are such a typically British institution. A bent but bright old gentleman of 93 was there first with his little book, and I overheard him telling Sir Ralph, with unmistakable pride, that he had the signatures of celebrities in all walks of life, from W. G. Grace, the famous cricketer of the last century, downwards—or up, whichever you like to call it!

HIS MANNERISMS

SIR RALPH in his broadcast touched briefly upon the varied reception given to "The Three Sisters," which had its premiere only three nights previously, and told of his experiences while making the film, "An Outcast of the Islands," in Ceylon, from which he only recently returned.

I was amused at his little mannerisms. Throughout his broadcast, his feet, in their spurred riding boots, shuffled restlessly. And while describing the mosquitoes and other plaguesome insects of Ceylon, he vigorously rubbed his right calf as if remembering their visitations. And, in theatrical tradition, he gestured freely with his hands which spoke almost as vividly as his tongue.

AMERICAN ANTICS

IN VIVID CONTRAST to Sir Ralph's dignity was the ebullience and effervescence of Danny Kaye, the American film comedian, whom the British people seem to have taken to their hearts. He bounded in, as if shot from a catapult, wearing a dilapidated-looking hat, slacks and a raincoat, and did an impromptu jig, before bounding over and kissing an astonished, but obviously delighted, girl in the audience.

From then on his so-called interview consisted of a series of impromptu "wisecracks." One of the funniest was his answer to the interviewer's question: "Mrs. Hodges wants to know if you are going into politics." It was a mastery of evasion that would have done credit to any politician—wrapped up in comical language which evoked roars of laughter from the studio audience.

POLICE BAND

EVERY FEW moments, he would whirl around to the 48-member Metropolitan Police Band, which also appeared on the program, and call for "something in B-flat, boys!" the delighted bandmen responding with a raucous blast of musical derision.

What intrigued me most about the U.S. star's performance was that he was the only one who gave his performance unrehearsed, unprepared, and without script. His replies to the interviewer's questions came back with riposte which was amazing and extremely amusing, and his imitations of a Cockney, a Brooklynite and a Frenchman who appeared on the broadcast earlier were convincing in the extreme.

KILL HOUSE BILL

Senate Committee Upholds Draw Poker In California

SACRAMENTO (UP)—A bill outlawing draw poker was unanimously killed last night by a senate committee on an unrecorded vote.

LONDON TOWER FALSE ALARM ALERTS GUARD

LONDON (Reuters)—The alarm signal flashed today from the jewel room in the ancient tower of London, where the crown jewels are kept.

Troops sprang into action. Five cars loaded with Scotland Yard detectives roared into the grounds.

Then an official explained shamefacedly that an alarm test had been sounded before scheduled.

In 1873 an Irish adventurer known as "Colonel Blood" got as far as the gate with the crown before being brought down.

Impressed with the Irishman's daring, King Charles II pardoned him and gave him a pension of £500 a year.

Rhodes Scholar Student At Comox School

This year's Rhodes Scholarship winner for British Columbia is a former Manitoba boy who calls Comox his home.

James Robert Midwinter who will be 22 next September when he starts attending classes at Oxford University, is the son of Mrs. H. Stewart of Lethbridge, Alta., and the grandson of Mrs. L. R. Cliffe, pioneer Comox resident.

James has concentrated his athletic activities to football and track. He is a member of the C.O.T.C. at U.B.C.

COLOMBO (Reuters)—Despite a semi-official statement that Ceylon contemplates no change in the general sale of its rubber, dealers here have delayed action on several small Hong Kong orders, it was learned today.

Usually-reliable sources said shippers are holding up rubber for Hong Kong pending clarification of the proposed United Nations embargo on strategic war materials for China.

Mendelssohn fled to this country from Nazi Germany in 1937. Since 1942 he has played with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Black Bear Shot By Game Official In Colwood Area

"That's the closest I've known an island black bear to come within a populated centre in my five years here," commented Inspector George Stevenson of the B.C. Game Department today after he shot and killed a two-year-old male bruin in the Colwood district at dusk Tuesday.

Insp. Stevenson said his department would know in a few days if there is another larger bear in the neighborhood, as believed.

Dogs had set up a clamour to tell of the presence of the bear. Insp. Stevenson joined about 15 other hunters and scoured the area. The bear, frightened by the clatter of an old truck, came galloping toward the inspector, and was revealed in the glare of the headlights at Wishart and Metchoin Roads, Stevenson downed it with a single shot.

Controls Only For Crisis, Nehru Claims

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru today defended in Parliament a controversial government bill which critics say threatens freedom of speech in India.

Nehru said the bill, which gives the government wider powers to control "speech and expression," would not be used "except in the event of a national or international crisis."

In brief, the government would be able to take action against statements threatening friendly relations with foreign powers, or considered harmful to public order, or contrary to "the interests of the security of the state."

Many Indian newspapers have attacked the proposals as "an onslaught" on the fundamental rights of a democracy.

FLAYS PAPERS

Nehru told Parliament the Indian government had to have the right to face any crisis that might arise. He denied freedom of the press was endangered, and spoke acerbically of some newspapers which were full of "vulgarity and falsehood, poisoning the minds and morals of the younger generation and degrading their mental and intellectual make-up."

NAVY VETERAN TO HEAR POPS PLAY HIS SONG

BOSTON (UP)—A paralyzed navy veteran will sit in a wheel chair at Symphony Hall tonight while the Boston Pops Orchestra plays an original composition he pecked out on a piano with one finger.

The veteran, Robert Grant Jr., a victim of multiple sclerosis, loved music but never thought of composing.

A Red Cross gray lady at the Cushing Veterans' Hospital learned he had written a poem entitled "Evening Prayer" and encouraged him to try to put it to music. Arthur Fielding, conductor of the Pops orchestra, heard about the song, visited Grant and listened to his music. Then he sent his own arranger to the hospital to make a full orchestration.

Motorist Flood Fatality As Columbia Crest Nears

PORTLAND, Ore. (OP)—The Columbia River's spring freshet claimed one life late last night as it edged up to its flood crest expected tomorrow.

A Stevenson, Wash., motorist, Aitan Wiltala, 27, apparently failed to see a detour sign warning of water on old Highway

No. 8 in back of Stevenson. His car hit the water at high speed, the state patrol reported, and the impact apparently knocked him unconscious. He drowned as his car rolled on into deep water.

All along the lower river the Columbia spread out over unbroken pasture lands. That is a normal spring occurrence and brings little damage.

The level at Vancouver, Wash., today was 19.2 feet, 4.2 feet over flood stage, but only 4 of a foot higher than yesterday. The Columbia held back the Willamette, raising that river to 19.1 feet in Portland Harbor, 1.1 feet above flood stage but not a damaging level.

Forecasters said the snake was down 3 of a foot at Lewiston and the Columbia at Trindad was down 2 of a foot. The Lower Columbia is expected to start a slight fall Friday.

Nickel For Germany

FRANKFURT (Reuters)—The West German government's import committee today authorized imports of industrial goods and foodstuffs worth more than $2,000,000, including $200,000 worth of nickel matte from Canada under Marshall Aid contracts.

Lay Theft Charge In I.W.A. Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vernon Carlisle, 49-year-old millworker, surrendered to police Tuesday to answer a $7,000 theft charge.

He and Mrs. Gladys Hilland, arrested last week, are charged with the theft of funds from Vancouver Local 1-217 of the International Woodworkers of America (I.W.A.).

Carlisle is a former president of the local and Mrs. Hilland was financial secretary when a group within the I.W.A. rebelled in 1948 and formed the rival Woodworkers Industrial Union of Canada.

HALIFAX (CP)—More than 60,000 youngsters are enrolled in the Nova Scotia Junior Red Cross, it was reported by Miss Elizabeth Browne, director of the branch, at a meeting here.

TIMES HOST TO MAYOR IN NEW OFFICES

Victoria Daily Times played host Tuesday afternoon to Mayor Percy E. George, who dropped into the afternoon paper's new offices in Victoria Press Ltd. building for a visit.

He congratulated the staff on its new quarters and visited with Archie Willis, managing editor and former city alderman.

Mayor George was taken through the plant's composing room and pressroom, where he saw copies of The Daily Times coming off the new Goss press, with a capacity of 40,000 papers per hour.

Vast Search For Missing R.C.A.F. Plane

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—More than 40 R.C.A.F. planes from bases in central Canada to Newfoundland took off today in the second day's intensive search for an air force Dakota that vanished with four aboard.

Handling of the operation was split into two parts—one section being directed from this base—home of the missing Dakota—and the other from Goose Bay, Labrador. The two-engine craft was last reported Monday night over Goose on a navigational training hop.

The air force—assisted by American planes from Newfoundland bases—now has covered some 100,000 square miles of Labrador, Gaspe, Anticosti Island and other places without finding a trace of the Dakota.

Planes were taking part in the hunt from bases in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. They included types with collapsible lifeboats and other rescue equipment.

Dulles To Talk Jap Peace Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador John Foster Dulles will leave for London June 2 for talks with the British government on Japanese peace treaty terms. The state department indicated, in announcing this today, that the London talks are expected to clear away the last obstacles to a settlement.

U.N. Extension Of China Ban Likely

Jebb Flays Criticism Of British Effort In Korea, Hong Kong Trade

FLUSHING, N.Y. (UP)—The United Nations, prodded by the U.S. Congress to slap an arms embargo on Communist China, moved today to widen its proposed ban on materiel shipments to the Red regime.

53.8 Mill Rate Is Struck By Saanich Council

Central Saanich Council Tuesday night struck a 53.8 mill rate for 1951 to meet its budget of $100,320.

Of this 33.8 mills will cover the school cost of $47,359.80, and 20 mills will meet part of the $52,961 estimated for general operation. The remainder will come from licence fees and other sources of income.

Included in expenditures was $1,989 for operation of the Apportionment Board dividing assets and liabilities of Saanich and Central Saanich.

Councillor Lorne Thomson, a member of the board, told Reeve Sydney Pickles at the meeting that Central Saanich "never had a chance of getting a share in Saanich waterworks, and you know it."

Reeve Pickles remarked that Councillor Thomson had signed the board report which "excluded Central Saanich from its rightful share in the waterworks assets of $115,000."

Want Middle East Included In Pact

WASHINGTON—The United States has opened talks with other members of the North Atlantic Alliance to find out whether they will agree to extend the security system to Greece and Turkey.

Several of the other 11 members have been strongly opposed to extending the treaty system to the Middle East. Some of the best-informed officials here doubt they will change their positions readily.

However, foreign diplomats indicated that upon U.S. suggestion the British Government is willing to review its position and consider a change. This may also be true of other member governments.

Extend Military Talks On S.E. Asia

SINGAPORE (AP)—Britain, France and the United States have extended closed military talks on common defence of Southeast Asia until later in the week, apparently requiring more time than they thought.

When talks began Monday, the conferees said they hoped to wind them up by today. Now it appears they will carry over until tomorrow, or perhaps Friday.

'European Unity Or Lower Living Standards'—Spaak

STRASBOURG, France (Reuters)—Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian president of the European assembly, today warned western Europe that rearmament will cut living standards unless "a far greater degree of union" is achieved.

In a press conference ending the first 1951 session of the consultative assembly of the Council of Europe—Europe's unofficial parliament—he said this is Europe's great problem.

The council of Europe so far had done little to create an effective European government, Spaak said.

"A new framework of a united Europe must be found," he said. One of the most important events of this session, he said, was the decision to invite the United States congress to a public debate on joint problems.

Spaak said an unofficial European-American relations.

A resolution rushed through unanimously by the House and Senate yesterday called upon the U.N. to prohibit the shipment of arms and "all other materials which might add to the war-making potential of Red China."

The U.N. General Assembly's main political committee, summoned for a session tomorrow to debate the arms embargo already approved by its 12-nation Korean sanctions committee, will receive a five-power proposal to stop shipments or needed railroad equipment to the Chinese.

Britain, at first reluctant to join in any embargo against the Chinese Reds, aligned itself completely with the U.S. in supporting a strategic ban on shipments into Peiping's territory.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb, Britain's chief delegate to the U.N., explained the British attitude on trade with Red China last night in a major speech before the New York City Bar Association.

He struck back at General MacArthur for asserting that British trade with China through Hong Kong was helping the Reds in the Korean war and that except for the U.S., U.N. members had only token forces in the conflict.

Jebb said the United Kingdom had restricted shipment of strategic materials to Communist China from the beginning of the Korean war.

Without mentioning MacArthur as the author of the charge that Britain had only a token force in Korea, Jebb said:

"The nation which, apart from the U.S. and the invaded country itself, has made by far the most troops available is Great Britain, which in addition to about 10,000 soldiers and airmen, is now supplying the greater part of the Commonwealth division recently constituted; and this in spite of the fact that we have a larger force actively engaged in resisting Communism in Malaya; a much larger force still, also essentially serving the same purpose, in the Middle East; and I believe not many fewer troops than you have in Germany."

Rain Checks Fires In Ontario Woods

TORONTO (CP)—Rain last night over northern Ontario's forest-fire front has helped check the only two fires which were out of control and fire protection officials today announced that all the province's 39 fires are under control.

One fire was put out and others were expected to be extinguished during the day.

West officials said a "good half-inch of rain" fell last night and early today in the Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury districts, where 15 fires were burning. The showers were expected to continue through much of the day, bringing cooler weather.

20-1 NO WAR BY JUNE 25

SEATTLE (UP)—The Pacific Coast Dentists' Association has insured its coming Seattle conference against war.

Dr. Frank Wood, Seattle, association president, said he had taken out a $10,000 policy with Lloyds of London which would pay off in event war is declared by the United States before June 25—the date the association's three-day convention begins.

The policy cost $335—making the odds better than 20 to 1 against war being declared as far as the insurance company is concerned.

Cosmic Rays 20 Miles Up Hazard To Rocket Planes

DENVER (AP)—Discovery of danger to humans in cosmic rays at high altitudes was reported today by the United States Navy to the Aero Medical Association.

This hazard begins at about 20 miles up, where rocket planes are expected to fly. The harm is similar to the effects of radioactivity.

The report was by Dr. Hermann J. Schaefer, of the Naval School of Aviation Medicine. Cosmic rays are atoms which fall at tremendous speeds into the upper atmosphere, coming from the sun and stars. At a little above 20 miles these incoming atoms strike the thin air and break up into harmless fragments.

The Milestone Of Torquay

THE GREAT POST-WAR MOVEMENT back toward world economic sanity through abundant international trade has come to a full stop. That is the meaning of the meager tariff agreements negotiated at Torquay and announced the other day.

The excessive hopes of the Torquay conference failed. But this does not mean that trade expansion has made no progress since the war. On the contrary, tariffs have been greatly reduced, world trade is now at a record volume, the economy of Europe has been restored until it produces more than ever before and, but for the cost of the cold war, the western world would be assured of unexampled prosperity.

Nevertheless Torquay, as a milestone and a symbol, must be counted a grave and discouraging reverse. It failed for only one reason—Britain and its partners of the sterling area are afraid to face the open competition of the world market. They cling to their protected trading zone, fenced around by the British Preference, instead of striking out to capture their full share of North America's huge business.

In due time they will find they were mistaken for there just is not enough business within the sterling area to support the needs of its members. In the meantime, by refusing to modify the Preference, by refusing to make any new bargain with the United States, Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and others have deeply disappointed the American Government, which was eager to trade tariff concessions. This rebuff is more serious than it seems.

Ever since the war the American Government, in trying to reduce tariffs and expand trade everywhere, has had to fight the protectionists of Congress, to quarrel with many powerful interests and to repeal, in stubborn stages, an American protectionist policy more than a century old. When Britain and its associates reject the United States' latest offers the American Government's difficulty in maintaining a low-tariff policy is greatly increased, since the forces of protectionism will now say that the British nations refuse to trade. Even the renewal of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, under which all the postwar tariff reductions have been made, may be endangered by the failure at Torquay.

In all this Canada's position is entirely different from that of any other nation in the Commonwealth. Two-thirds of our gigantic trade now being concentrated in the American market, our whole prosperity depending on our sales there, most of our imports coming from there, we were eager at Torquay to get American tariffs further reduced, along with tariffs all over the world. We have managed to make a small bargain which, though it applies our reduced tariffs to all countries, will mainly affect our trade with our neighbor. But this bargain amounts to little.

Having seen the impossibility of changing Britain's mind or seriously enlarging our markets in Europe and the Commonwealth, the Canadian Government should seek to expand our American trade.

Accordingly to secure a large American market we can afford to reduce some of our own tariffs. If anyone doubts it, let him observe the price of automobiles, refrigerators, radios and all kinds of manufactured goods a few miles away in Seattle. Our high tariffs are one of the major factors in the cost of living. Every consumer is paying for them invisibly and unnecessarily every day in the price of goods.

Promoting International Friendship

THE SUGGESTION IS SOMETIMES advanced that many of the man-made ills of this world would be cured if different peoples could visit one another in friendliness, join in small groups around a family hearth and talk of common problems and the attempts made to solve them. The merit in the suggestion rests on the basic belief that humanity has fundamental similarities. Given understanding, the people of one country could reconcile their differences with those of other nations without recourse to war.

The obvious barrier to applying such a policy is the physical impossibility of having all peoples participate in such visits. It is not impossible, however, for groups to journey in foreign countries and learn something of the ways of life followed in them. Before World War II, it was common enough for North American youth to tour Europe privately and form their own opinions of the character of the flesh and blood nationals they met.

A somewhat similar opportunity is provided by the Foundation for International Understanding through Students, a movement firmly planted in the University of Washington, at which many students from different parts of the world attend class on scholarships.

Next week-end 35 of them will visit Victoria on a trip sponsored by the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, the University Women's Club and chapters of the P.E.O. sisterhood. Here they will be billeted in private homes and, as guests, may see at first hand how the Canadian family, represented by Victorians, functions. They come as the result of the Victoria groups' response to their request for such a visit. When they return to their native countries, they may, through their short sojourn here, be able to interpret to their countrymen some facets of our way of life.

What value may reside in their interpretations will depend largely on the reactions to the treatment they receive and to the degree to which they can absorb our attitude to life. Whatever the outcome, the approach is constructive. They come as friends and will be treated as friends. That, in itself, represents a positive step toward better understanding.

School Building Arithmetic

THE ARITHMETIC OF BRITISH Columbia's plans for new school building this year is simple enough. According to the present arrangement the province intends to authorize half the total expenditure set last year—$5,000,000 compared with the $10,000,000 in 1950. Last year, however, only $8,000,000 of the authorized $10,000,000 was spent, leaving $2,000,000 to be carried over to this year's account. That, plus the $5,000,000 set for 1951 would provide $7,000,000, or only $1,000,000 less than was actually spent on last year's program.

The arithmetic, however, does not overcome the borrowing difficulties British Columbia will encounter on a soft bond market. Whatever money may be acquired through loans—if it can be acquired at all—will unquestionably carry a high interest rate. The same applies to funds to be raised by municipalities, which pay half of new school costs.

Municipalities, in consequence, will not be encouraged to construct any but essential buildings. They, like other public and private bodies, will forego borrowing wherever possible. That may reduce the demands made against the province for proportional shares of construction costs.

One ray of hope pierces the gloom of school building finances at the present time. Assuming the Federal Government's deflationary policies make themselves felt without delay, contractors who have been operating in a seller's market, may revise their approach to school building and restore a higher degree of competitive bidding than has been the case in recent years. If their tenders are sufficiently reduced by such competitive bidding, as a result of a falling off in building generally, British Columbia could benefit from lower tenders. For higher priced money it might receive lower cost schools.

Preference Or Necessity?

ONE HOPES THERE IS NOTHING significant in the two small news items which appeared recently in the same edition of this newspaper. A Los Angeles dispatch quoted a prominent doctor as saying that Russians are so insensitive to pain that major surgical operations are performed on them without the use of anesthetics. The medical man claimed to have witnessed such operations on Soviet patients and said there was not the "slightest evidence they felt any pain."

Another short dispatch from Torquay, England, noted that an appeal had been made to the residents of that city not to abuse the ambulance service. It seems that one man had called the ambulance because his corns were hurting.

These incidents may indicate nothing more important than that in Russia, the anesthetics are charged for while in England the ambulance service is free. It does not necessarily prove a deterioration in the moral fibre of Britons and a strengthening of the Moscovites' mettle.

In the case of the Torquay gentleman it could mean that his trouble was exaggerated by the absence of any real worries, while on the other hand an overflowing cup of sorrow made the Russians insensitive to any further agonies. But before drawing any conclusions, we feel one question should be answered, and that is: Do the hardy Russian patients endure without anesthesia by choice?

Peons Of The Athletic World

TO A NORTH AMERICAN SOCIETY strong in a belief in the individual's right to freedom, next month's investigation of organized baseball's control of players should furnish an interesting sidelight on our times and morals. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has already expressed the view that the club owner's hold over players amounts to "peonage."

Funk & Wagnall's dictionary defines a peon as "a common laborer; a servant. Specific: (1) In Mexico, a debtor who serves on a large estate, but is no longer legally bound, as formerly, to serve his creditor until the debt is paid." That appears to be the most applicable definition of the term.

The implication is that a youth acquired under certain circumstances by a professional baseball club is not a chattel—a body to be bought or sold at the whim or caprice of the club—but is a person denied complete freedom of action in so far as his future in the sport is concerned. Since a number of young men depend on their baseball abilities for a living, just as others depend on competency as musicians or plumbers, the system imposes definite limits on the freedom of action of the individual. So also do contracts in other spheres.

A neat discussion on the issue of human rights may emerge from next month's investigation by a judicial subcommittee of the U.S. House of Representatives. And here we thought U.N. studies on present-day slavery were concentrated on backward countries.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

This is the third article in a series on deflation.

OTTAWA: The present Government of Canada is really a huge and sprawling coalition of many contradictions, containing such almost sovereign powers as Mr. Howe and Mr. Gardiner—in short, the only really national party we have in our politics at the moment. It is long on political success, very short on political principles and about as able as any Government we have ever erected in this country. By and large the Government has had an easy time ever since the great divide was crossed with the defeat of Lord Bennett Hutchison and the pretty complete destruction of the Conservative Party in 1935. Easy, that is to say, in terms of politics. Hard beyond all previous experience in conducting the war, the postwar readjustment and the present adventure in collective security.

NOW, FOR THE first time, the Government begins to face real political trouble. By midsummer it will face real political fire.

This will not come, however, from a guttering Opposition, which has no real fire in its make-up. It will come from the innumerable provincial and municipal governments, business men and ordinary citizens who will be hurt by the Great Deflation. If there is no outcry from them it will be clear that the deflationary policy (already outlined in this space) has failed. For it cannot succeed without pain.

A HANGOVER is always painful, and after the financial drunk we have been on for the last year we shall soon be hung over like the morning after a policeman's ball. Or else, the Government's medicine having failed to work, we shall proceed with another round in the big binge.

The primary question in Canadian politics, therefore, is whether a Government which has felt only pea shooters so far can stand a real barrage. The Government knows this better than anyone and is steeling its soul for a summer and autumn of misery.

ALREADY the first protests are coming in. Little business men and even big tycoons who can't get all the money they want at the banks are blaming the Government for ruining all their plans of expansion. Provincial and municipal treasurers, who had intended to spend more this year than ever (having somehow overlooked the news of the threatened world war) are fit to be tied, very tightly, in the bond markets.

Before long pockets of actual unemployment may begin to appear here and there—temporary, unavoidable, but full of political danger to any government. And the worst of it all is that the Government cannot hope to explain to the Canadian people what it is doing, since the people are not economists and see only that their bonds have dropped in price while the price of goods is still rising.

CAN THE Government stand up to all this? It is not in the least worried by the parliamentary Opposition, now joined in a quaint Conservative-Socialist coalition on the issue of direct price control. The Government, indeed, hardly bothers to answer the Opposition, thinking its complaints too unimportant and too contradictory to be worth an answer. But if the public is sufficiently upset by deflation—that is, if the new remedy works—then the Opposition, having damned the Government for inflation, will turn right around and damn it for the opposite. That could be politically serious since, for once, the Opposition might represent a widespread public sentiment.

FOR ALL this the Government is prepared in its own mind, though it is saying little. It is determined not to retreat from its deflationary policy. It proposes to stand on its present line, believing that if it stands for a few months longer the public at last will see that it is getting results. As Wellington waited at Waterloo for night or Blucher, so the Government is waiting for a real deflationary policy in the United States (where the trouble originates) or for a lull in the cost-of-living index, or rather for both, since they are inseparable.

AND NOW I must apologize for filling this column with something sensible instead of its customary nonsense. If you will permit just one more spasm of sanity in this space, I promise to return then to sub-normal.

24-Hour Service

New Work Times

One night, approximately 3 o'clock in the morning during the busy Christmas season, Mr. Marshall Field, the former head of one of the largest department stores in the world, received a telephone call at his bedside which he promptly answered.

On the other end was a dear old lady, who went on at great length for some 10 minutes to describe to him her pleasure in a hat that she had just bought.

She told him of the fabric, of the shape, of the trim, how well it suited her, how pleasant the sales person had been and Mr. Field, wishing to be as courteous as always, listened attentively until, finally, it was a little over his head and he said: "But, madam, please tell me why you are calling me at this time of the night to tell me this?" She said: "I will indeed. Because your wagon just delivered it."

Paradise?

Winnipeg Free Press

In Russia everybody works for wages or gain. The Stakhanovite system in essence is the western system of bonus. Apart from Party members, nobody in Russia gets anything for nothing. There is no pie in the sky. In fact there is no pie unless the individual produces it. Even so it isn't pie but coarse black bread and soup. It is almost literally true "if you no work you no eat." Russia may deny God, but almost His first major edict they have accepted one hundred per cent—"In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread."

Is this scientifically possible? We, the undersigned would like you to verify the fact.

KOREAN CREDIT

Your correspondent from Sidney was evidently right when she questioned the accuracy of the news report from Korea that the Australians and Canadian had stopped the break-through of the Communist army in their big push.

This matter was settled beyond all doubt by the G.O.C. Van Fleet, in an order of the day, when he spoke of the unexampled gallantry of the Royal Gloucesters, and the mortar battery of the R.F.A. who for three days and three nights stood off the Chinese hordes and saved the 8th Army from envelopment and died almost to a man. Your photograph in Friday's Times, showed what was left of the regiment on parade, just about enough for a corporal's guard.

For some reason or other, it seems to be the policy here to play down the deeds of the British army and snatch any laurel wreaths that may be handed out. How about a little sportsmanship please?

PICKED BONES

The best government is the one the people are not aware of—when there is another sort, then is the time to beware. Never have the people been so wretchedly aware of their government as recently in this province. The present government is like a cloud of locusts—when they depart—if they ever do—many broken, picked bones will become visible. Many fine protective laws will be found to have been smashed.

Our "eastern" friends have a lot to answer for—if the damage could ever be brought home to them.

DISCERNER

PROOF OF EXISTENCE

According to your correspondent, Mr. Waldron Greene, "no living man knows whether there is a God in Heaven or not." The Apostle Paul gave the agnostics of Athens who had erected an altar "To the Unknown God" an uncontested reply by which he depicted God as the One "in Whom we live, and move and have our being." (See Acts 17:22-34).

Nature, to all appearance dead during the winter months and at the present time being resuscitated into newness of abundant life in this spring season, gives an indubitable proof of the existence of an Almighty God, creator and sustainer of the universe, including Mr. Waldron Greene.

A Reference To The Record

INFORMATION that has just been made available from Government sources sheds significant light on the current controversy concerning the factors influencing the rising cost of living in Canada. The statement has been made and repeated that there is profiteering by Canadian corporations. Official figures deny the truth of this statement. A comparison of the financial facts of 1939 and 1949 is the evidence.

In 1939 the country's gross national product was $5,598 million; in 1949 it was $16,382 million. In that period labor income increased from $2,583 million to $7,800 million. Corporate profits before taxes increased from $618 million to $1,898 million. Corporate profits after taxes increased from $506 million to $1,171 million.

From the above it may be ascertained that in the 10-year period, expressed as a percentage of the gross national product, corporation profits before taxes increased from 11.04% to 11.59%; after taxes profits declined from 9.04% to 7.14%; labor income increased from 46.14% to 47.61%.

In the decade the dividends paid out to persons from corporate profits increased from $281 million to $547 million. Since much of these dividends is paid to non-residents and since Canadians receive dividend and interest payments from abroad, the aggregate of dividends received by Canadians increased from $130 million to $269 million over the 10 years. As a proportion of the total personal income of Canadians, dividends received by Canadians declined from 3.03% to 2.12%.

Although prices of commodities and the cost of living have increased sharply over the 1939-1949 period, these official figures show that in ratio to gross national product (1) profits before taxes of Canadian corporations have remained relatively constant, (2) profits after taxes have declined, (3) labor income has increased. They show also that in ratio to the total personal income of Canadians, dividends received by Canadians have declined. The charge of profiteering by Canadian corporations cannot be sustained.

Taking Stock Of Our Forests

Montreal Star

THE long-awaited announcement that the federal and provincial authorities are going to get together and prepare a national inventory of the country's forest possessions was welcomed in Ottawa.

Hon. Robert H. Winters, Minister of Resources and Development, said he hoped the provinces would have their share of the work done in five years. It should not take the federal authorities nearly so long to estimate the forest resources of the Crown lands.

Allowing a generous year for the preparation of the inventory based on the joint surveys, Canada, for the first time in its history will then know the extent of its remaining timber heritage, and how much of it is available for exploitation and development.

It is none too soon. For generations the blessed word "inexhaustible" was the stock adjective produced at any discussion of the country's forest wealth. It was argued that Nature could be depended on to provide trees as fast as man could cut them down and—for many years—that artificial reforestation was not feasible.

The awakening began with the realization that through annual cutting, devastating fires almost every year, diseases and insect pests the depletion of the national forest wealth was well under way. It was not, however, possible to deal with this national problem as such.

Each province has jurisdiction over its own forests. Nobody knew or, for that matter yet knows, even how much standing timber there is in Canada. It is to obtain this information, essential as a first step to any consideration of national forest problem, that the inventory promised by Mr. Winters is to be prepared.

Terms of the co-operative plan are fair. The federal and provincial governments share the cost of completing the inventories in each province and the former will contribute further to encourage the provinces to reforest provincial Crown lands, under a measure of control.

Raising Divisions For Europe

By JOSEPH ALSOP, from Paris

SO MANY enormous problems remain to be solved by the governments concerned that it is very difficult to make a sound progress report on the organization of Western defence. It can be said, however, that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's headquarters hopes to have enough strength in Western Europe by next spring to "give the Kremlin pause."

In effect something like 20 divisions will by then be available to hold the line of the Rhine. It is not much, but it is already far more than the simple power vacuum which has existed in Western Europe until now. Moreover, since Soviet armies must inevitably lose punch and momentum as they drive farther and farther from their base of operations, 20 divisions on the Rhine ought to be enough to halt the 36 Russian divisions now stationed in Eastern Germany and Poland.

Unfortunately, however, the potential danger will still remain as great as ever for at least another year. The reasons are only too obvious.

In the first place, even now, before full mobilization, the Kremlin has not a mere 36 divisions, but at least a hundred, available for a westward offensive. This is the figure given by the most reliable intelligence for the global Russian force that is now maintained in Eastern Europe and Western Russia. Of these hundred Russian divisions, 16 are in the Ukraine, threatening the Balkans. And this leaves 48 divisions available to strengthen the existing armies in Poland and East Germany, when and if the time comes.

In the second place, and even more significant, the reorganization of the satellite armies and their re-equipment, with every sort of modern weapon are still going forward apace. The process is complete in Bulgaria, well advanced in Poland and quite probably fairly far along in Romania.

Even in Hungary and Czechoslovakia, which are lagging, the job is expected to be finished by late next spring. The timing is striking. And when the job has been finished everywhere in the satellite area, the Kremlin will dispose additionally of somewhere between 60 and 70 vassal divisions.

UNSATISFACTORY

These figures are enough to indicate that the present scope and tempo of the Western defence effort are unsatisfactory. Even if the largest allowances are made for the possible unreliability of the satellites, the fact still remains that the Kremlin will gain more strength in the next 12 months in the satellite area alone than Gen. Eisenhower will gain in all of Western Europe.

Gen. Eisenhower was of course too wise to suppose that the gap between Soviet and Western power could begin to be closed at once, simply because the decision had been made to rebuild the defences of the West. His working theory seems to be to get together, by emergency measures, whatever force he can for next year, and to place the main emphasis on having a really powerful, defensive force ready in 1952-53.

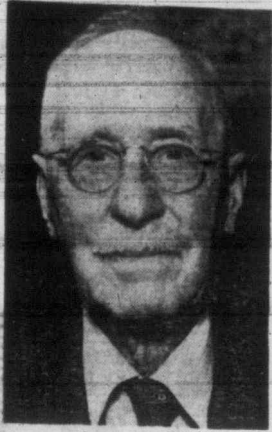

In order to do this, however, it will be necessary for the British and French and American governments to tackle energetically the long list of outstanding, unsettled problems given in a previous report in this space. How the Germans are to be rearmed; how great an air force will eventually be needed in Europe; how facilities are to be provided for the new divisions and air groups; how the French and others are to adjust their training periods so that their contributions of divisions is always ready—all these are urgent, painful, politically difficult questions which absolutely demand answers.

The professed eventual aim is to help the people on the scene to build up enough strength of their own so that, at long last, the American garrison can be withdrawn from Western Europe.

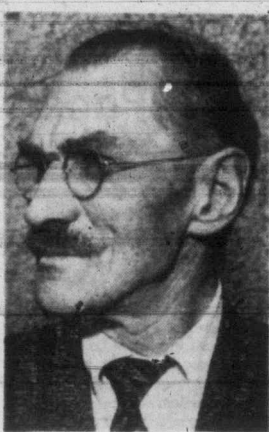

By its nature, in short, Gen. Eisenhower's task must be done by phases. And even the first phase will not be concluded until the outcome of the summer showdown is known.

Novel Moustache-Growing Competition For North Saanich Celebrations In June

Sidney Sprouts Mustaches For Big Two-Day Diamond Fete June 26-27

Mustaches are sprouting today among the Sidney male population to take part in a colorful moustache competition to be judged on the big two-day Sidney Diamond celebrations on June 26 and 27.

Scores of persons, including farmers, shopkeepers, customs officials, carpenters and business men have entered the contest sponsored by the Rotary Anns, wives of Rotarians, as a feature attraction for the North Saanich celebrations.

The majority of contestants began to grow hairs on their upper lips a few weeks ago. Their mustaches are now tooth-brush size. They have a long way to go before they will begin to look like floor brushes.

But for people like Bryan Forster, barber, taking part in the contest, moustache-growing is a month from now will be a chore. "It is already beginning to interfere with my eating," said Mr. Forster. "I won't be able to drink soup soon."

Stan Watley, grocer, complained that his wife was beginning to object to the way his moustache was shaping. The bristles were beginning to curve around his mouth, he said.

"I'll be glad to shave it off," he added.

But for an old-timer like J. J. White, 82, moustache-growing was an easy matter and something to be proud of. Mr. White, retired, was Sidney's first customs officer and is the oldest contestant. The moustache contest is only one of the many attraction listed on the program for the jubilee celebrations. There will also be a beauty contest open to all girls on Vancouver Island.

NO KOREA TALK

Stone Child Has Hope Of Survival

EDMONTON (CP)—Lt. Col. J. R. Stone said Tuesday his two-year-old daughter, Moira, now has a "50 per cent chance of survival" and partial vision in one eye.

The commander of the Second Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, said the eye will be treated by radiation. Moira's other eye was removed last Thursday because of cancer.

Col. Stone told newspaper men that pathological tests have confirmed "very definitely" that the eye removed was affected by cancer.

"There was no noticeable damage to the optic nerve of that eye, but that is no proof of anything," he said.

"We had a choice of removing the other eye or treating it by radiation."

The Colonel, who flew home from Korea at the week-end, said the radiation treatment now planned likely will take three and a half or four months, if Moira lives.

He said his possible return to Korea "won't be discussed now."

S.P.C.A. Opposes Dogs, Cats On New 'Game List'

Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is on the march against a proposal of the Cowichan Fish and Game Association to add dogs and cats to its list of game. E. P. Heywood, president of the Victoria branch, said today.

"We are definitely against the action they propose," Mr. Heywood said. "We are getting in touch with our parent body in Vancouver and the game department on the matter."

The Cowichan hunters' decision came at an association meeting when members complained of damage to game birds and deer by roving cats and dogs.

"I personally believe it might be well to get rid of many wild dogs and cats," Mr. Heywood said "but the S.P.C.A. will not approve of indiscriminate extermination by the hunters' methods. If it is found necessary it must be done humanely."

Controls Battle Bogs Down As Interest Wanes

'Rides Around Country' In Government Car By Truman's Sister Flayed

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration apparently was making little, if any, headway today in its battle for continued controls on wages, prices, credit and rents.

Chairman Burnet R. Maybank of the Senate Banking Committee warned that there doesn't appear as much interest in the controls program now as there was this time last year.

The South Carolina Democrat's committee is considering President Truman's request for a two-year extension beyond June 30 of the Defence Production Act and tougher control provisions.

In other congressional developments:

Beef — Cattlemen got their chance to present facts and figures on the reasons why they think the government-ordered beef price rollback should be canceled. The House Agriculture Committee, friendly to the farmer, began three days of hearings on the question.

Limousine — Republicans and Democrats got into more angry exchanges about rides around the country of President Truman's sister in a government-owned limousine.

NEW CAR TAX — Taxes — House tax writers were considering a tax on some second-hand cars. Some members of the House Ways and Means Committee said they favored a tax which would apply in cases where a new car is sold within one year after the original purchase.

India — The Senate was expected to approve quickly a bill to send 2,000,000 tons of wheat of India.

Un-American — The House Un-American Activities committee resumed its Communism-in-Hollywood investigation hearings.

Toppling Steel Kills Shipyard Worker

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver man was killed Tuesday when four tons of steel fell on him at the Burrard Drydock Company plant here.

Company officials said Douglas Cunningham, 42, was standing beside a steel rack when the rack toppled and dumped the steel on him.

City To Preserve Tree

The tree growing through the sidewalk at the corner of Richmond and Fort will be preserved by the city's public works committee.

This was decided at a meeting Tuesday afternoon when the committee sat to consider a request from M. H. Barry that an aged oak be cut down. Mr. Barry said if the city would undertake the removal, he would provide parking space on property next to his store.

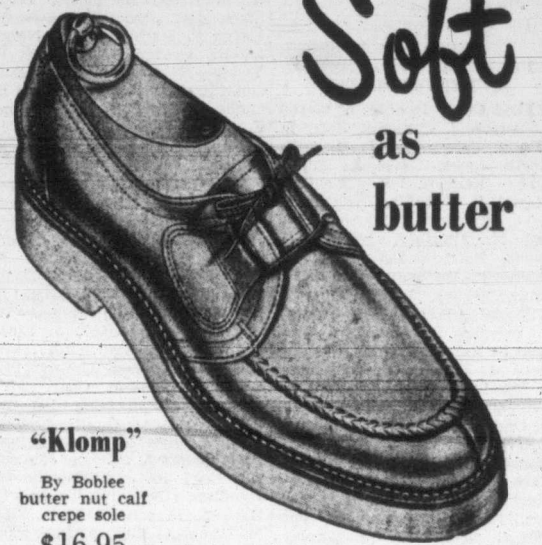

Cyril Jones, city engineer, reported the tree was a sound and sturdy specimen and was no danger to traffic.

HOME GARDEN

by Jack Rosebush

Club root of cabbage is a large subject to handle within the confines of this column, and difficult to discuss in a non-technical manner.

After a 10-year fight to eradicate this disease, I consider it the one to be most dreaded by home gardeners. Infection of the soil is easily started by planting one or two diseased cabbages, but control requires a continuous and determined battle over a period of years.

Victoria Club Launches Drive Against Mishaps

Victoria Automobile Club has launched a campaign of "protective driving" to guard other drivers and pedestrians from some of the common accidents that occur in the city.

At a meeting Monday directors met with Robert Dobie, now conducting a traffic survey in the city.

"Protective driving calls for caution even when the green light says 'go,'" George I. Warren, club manager, said in opening the campaign. "Drivers who try to make it across the street when the light is changing are letting themselves in for trouble."

Many accidents occur at intersections, he said, even with a traffic light.

He also urged that small children be seated in cars and fastened securely for protection against sudden stops.

The campaign will solicit help from the public and all publicity outlets to increase road safety, Mr. Warren said.

club-root is before it gets into your garden, and the best defence is a thorough knowledge of the disease and of the many plants which it attacks.

There are also beliefs regarding this disease which should be dispelled, for in practicing them the gardener has a feeling of security which is entirely false.

In the first place, the characteristic swellings on the roots of infected plants are not caused by insects. They are the work of a slime-mould which is increased by the dispersal of spores. The gardener not only carries the spores over his own ground on his boots, but over that of his neighbor when making a friendly visit. Garden tools also spread the disease.

Cleansing the boots and tools with lime is considered a simple precaution, but the spores are not affected in any way. Lime does not "kill" the disease; its only use is to create a more alkaline condition in the soil which lessens the rapidity with which the mould multiplies.

A sprinkling of lime over the cabbage patch has little or no effect on club root. The soil should be tested for acidity, the results of which will indicate the amount of lime necessary to make a neutral or slightly alkaline condition.

Effective control can only be brought about by the use of caustic poisons, and the elimination of all host plants.

ELUSIVE STUDENT WORKS UNDER REPORTER'S NOSE

This is the kind of thing that drives reporters crazy: Times reporter Dave Stock was assigned Tuesday afternoon to get Victoria College examination results and write a story on the leading students. By five, he had contacted all but one, Janice Bacon, second highest student in the first-year class.

Repeated calls to her home went unanswered. Efforts to locate her father at his work by city directories were futile.

Stock went home for supper.

Back on the job again in the evening, he telephoned Janice's home. She answered.

Where had she been all afternoon? Working. And where did she work? In the Victoria Daily Times circulation department... one floor below Stock's desk.

Eighteen-year-old Patricia Carstens is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Carstens. Her father is an employment and claims officer with the Unemployment Insurance Commission. She has one sister, Sheila, presently attending Oak Bay High School.

Miss Carstens was born in Victoria and went to Bank Street, Sir James Douglas, Quadra Primary and Willows elementary schools as well as schools in Ottawa, Saint John, N.B., and Annapolis Royal, N.S., before completing her elementary education. She attended Oak Bay High.

Born in Victoria, he attended Margaret Jenkins, Craigflower, Central, Tillicum and Victoria High Schools.

He has three sisters and one brother. He will spend the summer months working for the department of education at the Parliament Buildings.

HELEN AUCHINVOLE

U.B.C. Winner Will Be Admitted To Bar Here

This is "the big week" in the life of Constance Dora Holmes, 344 Island Highway.

The Nanaimo-born girl who came here to attend Victoria Col-lege five years ago, received word from University of British Co-lumbia today that she has headed the third-year graduating class in law.

And on Saturday she will be admitted to the bar at a cere-mony to be performed at the Court House in Vancouver.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Holmes, 1183 Pacific Street, Vancouver, Miss Holmes first appeared on the "scholarship lists" at Victoria College when, in her first year, she was top stu-dent in French.

When she went to U.B.C. for her three-year law course, she continued setting top marks. She headed the class the first year and was second highest the sec-ond year.

For the second year in suc-cession, David A. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson, 3133 Delta Street, has won a $500 Canadian Pulp and Paper fellow-ship to further his studies in forestry.

Announcement of the award came today in the release of the U.B.C. prize lists for 1950-51.

Wilson, 28-year-old navy ver-eran who holds B.A. and B.Sc. degrees from University of Brit-ish Columbia, at present is work-ing toward a doctorate in forestry at University of California. He receives the second fellowship on the basis of the high marks he received in graduating from Uni-versity of British Columbia.

He has won honors at Cali-fornia in the past year, having been elected president of the Post Graduate Forestry Society at the University and more recently a member of the Xi Sigma general honors society.

Wilson is married to the former Eileen Wills of Victoria, also a U.B.C. graduate. They have a three-year-old son, Roger.

Many Victorians will remember Helen Joan Auchinvole as "the wee Highland lassie" who was dancing her way to champion-ships in the Scottish games here and on the mainland a few years ago.

Today the 23-year-old daughter of Mrs. F. Auchinvole, 1912 St. David Street, added a different colored feather to her tam o' shanter.

She was awarded the Hough-land prize of $100 at U.B.C., in-graduating as a pharmacist, for the best record of any student in practical work of pharmacy and dispensing laboratories.

Victoria is losing one of its prize U.B.C. students to the prairies.

Grant MacKinnon, 23-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mac-Kinnon, 1244 Chapman Street, who was awarded the Royal Ar-chitectural Institute gold medal when he graduated today from U.B.C. as a qualified architect, is taking a position in Regina on June 1.

MacKinnon will be working in the offices of Stock, Ramsay and Associates in the Saskatchewan capital.

A native son, MacKinnon at-tended Sir James Douglas School, Victoria High and Victoria College before going to university to complete his studies.

Views Of Sport

By RED SMITH

NEW YORK—Louis E. Stoddard Jr., who died in Aiken, S.C., this week, was a chunky, sandy little guy with a twinkling grin that seemed to be built into his features, an undisciplined heart, and such an ignorance of the emotion of fear that you wouldn't believe it. He was only 37 years old when his heart quit on him and it couldn't have come as a surprise to him, because the doctors warned him a year ago how it would be if he didn't take things easy. But doctors couldn't scare him, any more than anybody or anything else.

Smith

There is no estimating how many times in his 37 years Lou Stoddard risked his neck, or by how many methods. He fished it in polo and hunting and steeple-chasing, and because there was never a horse or a fence or a hazard that could scare him, he was one of the finest amateur riders that ever threw a leg over a jumper.

When World War II came along, he went, naturally, into the cavalry at Fort Riley, Kans., but modern warfare doesn't make the same use of cavalry officers and horses as in the old days, so he wound up as a paratrooper, springing out of planes over China and such-like places.

Twice he rode in the Grand National at Aintree in England, which is considered the most hazardous race course in the world, and both times his mount went down under him. He rode Jock Whitney's Rod and Gun in the National of 1936, and in 1939 he rode Milano, which raced in the colors of Mrs. Stoddard.

The Medicos Didn't Know Lou

Mrs. Stoddard was watching when Milano fell. She was pretty sure it was her husband whom she'd seen thrown away off on the far side of the course, but others in her party thought it was another rider, and she tried to believe them until she saw Milano running loose, without a jockey.

Then she waited, holding herself in, trying not to look when the ambulances went around picking up limp little figures that lay all jostle and unmoving on stretchers. She held herself in until she saw her husband. He was riding along in a car with a turban of bandages around his head, and he was sitting up grinning and waving at the pretty girls.

That wasn't by any means the first time, or the second, or the third, that Lou had been thrown. First time he went across to ride in England, during the winter of 1933-34, he had a bad spill on Pete Bostwick's Canute in a steeple-chase at Leicester, and after they'd scraped him off the turf, the doctors were ready to stake their reputation on the prediction that he'd never get aboard another horse.

A True Horseman At Heart

Lou came home in pretty fierce shape and "Uncle Brose" took him in hand. Uncle Brose is F. Arbrose Clark, a pretty rugged old gent himself. He took Lou up to his place in Cooperstown, N.Y., and patched him and doctored him and tinkered with him, until next thing anybody knew, here was the little guy riding Free Wheeler in the Welsh Grand National at Cardiff and finishing second to Uncle Brose's Sorely Boy.

The obituary said that Lou was educated at Roxbury and Yale, which isn't exactly the way Lou would have expressed it. As he told it, he fought with unflinching zeal against education in every school he ever attended, and eventually scored a unanimous decision. He hated school and he liked horses.

When he had endured all the formal schooling he could take, Lou told his father he was ready to step out into the world. His father inquired about his ambitions. "I'd like to be a jockey," Lou said. His father sighed, and Lou became an amateur jockey.

By the time he was done with riding, he was a horseman. A working horseman. You'd see him out on the track early in the morning, training his horses, sitting on a pony or plodding through deep mud in a pair of beaten up bedroom slippers.

He Didn't Scare Easily

One summer up at Nantucket, Lou and his friend, Bob Kelley, made a date to take a couple of Lou's four children and some nephews and nieces out sailing on a sloop owned by another friend. Storm warnings were up that day, but to Lou that only meant there'd be a good breeze for sailing. So out they went.

Outside the breakwater, a gale hit them, snapped the main mast off close to the deck, and for a minute it was six, two and even that the whole party would drown. The kids were shoed below while Kelley, the sloop's owner and one paid hand made with axes cutting away the fouled rigging.

Little Louie, who was no sailor, watched with a happy grin on his face. "Shipwreck Kelley," he kept saying happily. "Good old shipwreck."

At length the Coast Guard came alongside, bawled the yachtsmen out for defying storm warnings, and took the children off to safety. The man who owned the boat had been staring at Lou Stoddard.

"Your friend," he said to Kelley, "doesn't scare easily, does he?" (Copyright, 1951, New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

Unknowns Expected To Steal Preakness Glory

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two modest racing stables with comparatively unknown trainers are on the threshold of possible knocking each other out of fame and fortune in the Preakness.

Crossing each other in Saturday's big Pimlico race will be Hampton Stable's Altered and Mrs. Nora Mikell's Repetire.

The two are just as likely to be favorites come Saturday as any other entries which points up not only the wide-open aspect of the 75th Preakness but the whole three-year-old situation as well.

Repetire and Altered are by far the best colts ever owned by Frank Stout of Malden, Mass., and Mrs. Mikell of Dover, Del. Repetire is only the fifth horse owned by Mrs. Mikell, while Stout has been in the turf sport only three years.

Stout bought Altered last September 18 at Belmont from Calumet Farm, which failed to come up with a Preakness horse this year.

Repetire was purchased by Mrs. Mikell for $4,000 at the Saratoga yearling sales.

A friendly feud has grown up between the two outfits after three meetings this spring in which Repetire twice beat Altered by a head and once by 5 1/2 lengths.

Altered took the measure of two of the other Preakness probabilities, Brookmeade's Bold and King Ranch's Sonic, in Monday's prep.

White Crashes Grand-Slam Blow; Ron Smith Winner

Dick Barrett's Athletics

with the pre-season press clippings finally catching up, reached out and got a toe-hold on fourth place in the Western International League baseball standings last night when they put the first game of a three-game series with Yakima behind them 8 to 4.

The win was the seventh in the last eight times out for the Victorians and left them within 22 percentage points of fourth place and a full game and a half ahead of the Bears.

The A's beat Yakima on a bases-loaded homer by Bill White in the seventh inning. The 350-foot fly bounced off the top of left field fence and back into the park. Yakima left fielder Bill Andering sprained an ankle attempting to field the ball.

Ron Smith gave up 10 hits, but notched his fourth victory against two defeats. Larry Powell started hurling for the Bears, but turned the mound over to Ted Savarese in the third because of a sore arm. Savarese was charged with the loss.

L.L. LILLO HITS

The power hitting of Lillo Marcucci was again a large factor in the Victoria victory. Marcucci's long fly to center in the third put Dunn in scoring position and set the stage for the two-run lead by the A's. The hefty returned-third baseman got his second hit, a double, in the fifth, to tie the game after Yakima had gone ahead, 3 to 2, in the fourth.

But it was White's homer that paid off big, and although the Bears picked up another run when Serrell hit his third consecutive double in the eighth, the margin was too big and Smith too stingy to let the Americans get back in the game.

INDIANS SHUT OUT

Wenatchee's Dave Dahle shut out the Spokane Indians, 6 to 0, last night in a pitching exhibition not seen too often in leagues bigger than the Western International.

Dahle, working before the biggest home crowd of the season, retired the batters in order in five out of the nine innings. He spaced out the four one-base hits he gave up, never allowing more than one in an inning. Dahle stranded seven Indians on bases and only one got as far as third.

Ed Murphy, Indian centre-fielder, tried to help his team by making a circus catch. Ken Wyatt, who was relieved in the fifth by Bob Roberts, was the losing hurler.

The loss kept Spokane one-half game behind the league-leading Vancouver Caplans, who also lost their contest last night.

Tacoma blasted the Caplans and Tri-City downed Salem both by 5 to 3 scores.

Left-hander Jim Hedgecock will likely go against the Bears in the second Yakima-Victoria game at Yakima tonight.

Short scores follow:

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Victoria	10	6	0	.625
Spokane	9	7	0	.562
Wenatchee	10	6	0	.625

Magic Mountain Again

Ralph Baker said today that Bill Andrews, the "magic mountain," will be in the nets again tonight when Victoria Shamrocks meet their arch foes, New Westminster Commandos in an Intercity Lacrosse League fixture at the Memorial Arena. 'Rocks whipped the Royal Cley squad 9 to 6 a week ago at Westminster and piled up a heap of unsettled stick litigation. The mayhem commences at 8:30.

TAKE LEAGUE LEAD

P.&N. Use Millmen As Stepping Stone

B.C. Forest Products are still looking for their first win in the Senior A Men's Softball League after absorbing a 6 to 3 loss to the front-running Pitzer & Nex team at Central Park last night.

The gasmen took over first place in the standings last night while Forest Products remained in the cellar.

For a time the Millmen looked like they might pull a mild upset after taking a 3 to 2 lead in the bottom of the sixth, but a costly error at second base by Don Hendry started the ball rolling for Pitzer and Nex.

Joe Bryant opened the inning pinch-hitting for Hap Milliken and was an easy out on a pop fly to the infield. Billy Duncan followed Bryant and hit a roller down to the right of second. Hendry had to hurry his throw and in doing so threw into the dirt at first allowing Duncan to go to second.

Bill Reynolds lashed out a double and Bernie Clarkson did likewise. Ab Wiebe singled and Ray Byers walked to load the bases again. Flori Grogan lined out a clutch double to left centre, but Wiebe was called out for failing to touch third base.

Toad Garnet flew out to right to end the inning but the Gasmen had picked up three runs to once again take the lead at 6 to 3.

SMITH HITS BALL Mickey Smith came out of a mild batting slump to lead the Millmen at the plate with three hits, including a ground rule triple to left centre. Bill Reynolds also picked three hits for Pitzer and Nex.

The next scheduled game in Central Park for the Senior A Men's League will be on Thursday night at 6:30 when Bluebird Cabs tangle with Butler Bros. Acs.

Short score follows: R H E Pitzer and Nex 6 10 3 B.C. Forest Products 3 7 4 Batteries—Wiebe, Martin (7) and Milligan, Wiebe (7); Ross and Smith.

MARTIN TO RESCUE Norm Martin came in to relieve Ab Wiebe in the bottom of the seventh and the ace reliever for Coach Dick Williams put up the stop sign, as he whiffed six batters in the last three innings.

SEEK FERRIS FAIN The Yankees are reported anxious to pull a three-for-one or four-for-one deal to land the Philadelphia Athletics' southpaw pitcher Bobby Shantz or first baseman Ferris Fain. So far the A's aren't nibbling.

The latter was excess baggage at the moment and so the world champions quickly ordered him to their Kansas City farm.

Plugging some more holes, the Cardinals also called back Vernal (Nippy) Jones, good-hitting veteran first baseman, from Rochester and sent the Red Wings third baseman Don Richmond.

SNYDER STILL LEADS W.I.L. MOUNDSMEN

Marshall Holds Doubious Honor

TACOMA (AP)—By hanging up his sixth victory without a defeat when his Caplano mates rallied for three ninth-inning runs last Saturday against Tri-City, Vancouver's Bob Snyder lengthened his lead in the Western International League pitching race.

Next in line behind Snyder's 6-0 record was a teammate, southpaw Carl Gunnarson, who remained stationary at 3-0. The third spot was shared by no fewer than six hurlers—Charley Gassaway of Wenatchee, Jim Holder and Bob Roberts of Spokane, Dick Stone and Joe Nicholas of Tri-City, and Ivan Goldizen of Tacoma, all with 2-0 records.

Left-handers continue to dominate the strikeout race, the top three spots again being held by Wenatchee's Tom Breisinger (39), Wenatchee's Dave Dahle (30), and Victoria's Jim Probst (29), with Dahle and Probst having exchanged places during the week.

The right-hander, most puzzling to enemy batsmen is Al Treichel of Wenatchee, with 28 whiffs to his credit.

WALKING DEPARTMENT The port-siders no longer have a stranglehold on leadership in the "walking man" department, however. Victoria's John Marshall having gained top spot in that unenviable bracket with a season's total of 41 bases on balls, of which 22 came in his last two outings and 15—the single game high for the campaign—against Wenatchee.

The lefties are conspicuous from there on down, nevertheless. Breisinger had issued 34 passes, Probst 30 and Tacoma's Bob Schulte 27.

Bud Ross had tough luck in being charged with the loss. Wiebe gained credit for the win.

Wiebe came here within a reputation gained in Winnipeg as a top-notch hurler and buzzball artist, but he stayed with the orthodox under-hand pitching for all but two batters. He could not control his buzz-ball, and gave up after walking a pair.

SMITH HITS BALL Mickey Smith came out of a mild batting slump to lead the Millmen at the plate with three hits, including a ground rule triple to left centre. Bill Reynolds also picked three hits for Pitzer and Nex.

By LANCE WHITTAKER

VANCOUVER—You can't spot the Vancouver Combines seven goals and hope to beat them.

Ralph Baker's Shamrocks learned that the hard way last night as they went down fighting at the Kerrisdale Arena. The best the Irish could do after a near-fatal first quarter was to pull back within three goals 12 to 9.

Jubilant Combines coach Johnny Cavallin said after the game, "We took out insurance at the beginning, and we sure needed it."

The win tied Combines and Shamrocks for the league leadership, with three wins and one loss each.

Combines lived up to their name, putting together an airtight defence and a sharp attack from the first whistle, running up seven markers before the 'Rocks got unstung at the 10-minute mark in the second quarter.

After that the Victorians found the range and looked more like the team that has the reputation of being the class of the league.

GOALIES HOT Goalie Bill Andrews felt as though he had just foured a rubber plantation after it was all over. The portly "Sweet William" kicked out 39 of the 51 shots poured his way, while Lee, in the Combines net, was called on 33 times.

Only one or two of Vancouver's 12 goals could be laid at Andrews' door. On the others he had little or no chance. The speedy, hard-running Combines set up the prettiest scoring plays of the night.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

If you're looking for the nucleus of Canada's 1952 Olympic track and field team, look no further than the northern division of the Pacific Coast Collegiate Conference.

Don't take my word for it, but the authority for the statement comes from two men who should know—good-looking, curly-headed Bob Hutchings (without the "n") and Bruce Humber, coach of Canada's track and field team at the 1950 British Empire Games.

Bob, who has been running second so often this year that he feels like manager Joe McCarthy of the American League Boston Red Sox, says to keep our peepers on the big northern division championships at Washington State College this Saturday if we're looking for Olympic timber.

Shrugging off his performance—which do include one big FIRST—with a "just can't seem to get going," Bob readily admits that the Canadian boys are set to steal all the thunder this week-end.

And Bruce, who himself was quite a star at Washington a few years back, agreed with the ex-"V" Junior star.

At present attending the University of Washington, Bob points to five men as being outstanding in their chosen fields.

"One fellow to watch," he says, "is teammate Pete Steward of Oliver. He's a hurdler and good one."

"Then there's Bill Parnell. You all know Bill. He's running better than ever before. It was really funny in last week-end's meet when the three Washington State runners finished in a dead heat."

Bill In A Class By Himself

Parnell was so far out in front of the field as he headed into the home stretch that he turned around to have a look. He saw his teammates running second and third. Bill waved them up as he slowed his pace and the three came across the line stride for stride.

"Another great prospect," continued Bob, "is Fred Turner, a miler from Kelowna, who will represent Oregon in the championships. Turner is a teammate of 1946 Olympic Games half-miler Jack Hutchings of Vancouver."

"An almost certain bet for the Olympic squad," Bob added, "is Leo Roininen of Sudbury, who is attending Washington State. Roininen captured the javelin throw for Canada at the British Empire Games and only recently won an inter-school meet with a record toss."

Besides these, and swimmers Peter Salmon and Doug Stewart of Victoria who are at Washington, there's also a couple of Canadians making track history in other parts of the United States.

McEwen Outstanding Two-Miler

One of these is Jim Lavery from Calgary, a sprinter by trade, but who has been making the headlines with his spectacular anchor performance for the Drake University mile relay squad.

However, to Ottawa's Don McEwen, a student at the University of Michigan, must go the highest accolade. McEwen is rated the foremost two-miler in the State today and is a prohibitive favorite to win the national two-mile championship this year. He is also a miler of better than ordinary calibre.

Another B.C. bred of who little has been heard in these parts is Vancouver's Pete Muir. A student at St. Martin's College in Washington, Muir has been a standout in three meets this season.

These are just some of the athletes who may give Canada a victory in next year's Olympics. But doesn't it seem a pity that Canadian Colleges couldn't recognize talent such as this and give Canadian athletes a chance to develop their talents in Canadian schools.

A Promising Comer

And speaking of track don't overlook the performance of Victoria High School's Don Burgess, who last week cracked the long-standing mile record set by Muzz Patrick.

"Don is in his second year of real running," says Humber, "and he runs the race he is told to run. For his age (Don is 18), he has showed great promise and can do better than he did in that particular race."

Victoria this year will be host to some of the best track and field performers available and with the new cinder track at Vic High to test this talent, don't be surprised if a few B.C. and Canadian records fall by the wayside.

Bruce Humber is just itching to get the season under way for he feels that Victoria can produce its share of members of the 1952 Olympic team. And if anybody can help these athletes attain that goal, Bruce, this corner's nomination for the Olympic coaching berth, is that man.

BAYS IN FIFTH LOSS

Unbeaten Mount View Nine Tops Prep Loop

The undefeated Mount View High School squad took over the lead in the Junior softball league yesterday by whipping the previous holders of that position, Central Junior High, 10 to 4.

Mount Douglas moved into the third slot by defeating Oak Bay High one 13 to 9, while Oak Bay Two won their game 12 to 3 over Victoria High School Blacks. Esquimalt downed Vic High Glens.

At Mount View, both teams tallied twice in the first, then the home team exploded for six runs in the third inning to win the ball game.

Central sent three pitchers to the mound while Cameron was Mount View's lone, and winning pitcher.

At Oak Bay, the hapless home squad absorbed its fifth straight loss in a free-scoring game with Mount Douglas.

The contest was close through-out until the visitors scored four runs in the sixth to wrap it up.

At the Fernwood grounds Oak Bay's second team played seven runs in the third inning to hand the Vic High Blacks their third loss.

Brock Whitney Gives The Plate To Teams Which Take The Cake

Sixty-six annual sport trophies—most of them given each year with small replicas for the permanent possession of the winner—bear the name "Whitney." They are the gift of a man who is making an immense contribution to the sport of life in a way that is peculiarly his own.

Brock Whitney has given a trophy for almost every type of competition which can be described as a sport, and the list includes tree climbing and soap box racing.

At first blush, the reason for such munificence is obvious; the Whitney name in jewelry should be worth the donation of a few cups, it's good advertising.

That's a sound enough reason, but it hardly accounts for 66 trophies, and the obligation to supply replicas for them year after year.

Brock himself feels that his "hobby" is good business, but that is only one—and not the best—of several reasons why he embarked on his trophy spurge some five years ago.

A better reason is the pride he takes in the two small silver medals he himself won as a boy, the first for marksmanship when he was cadet lieutenant with the 388th Cadet Regiment in 1913, and the second for winning the

Blackwell Latest Hurler To Score 'Near Miss'

Hodges Finds Homers Come From 'Swinging'

NEW YORK (UP)—Good bet for the 1951 season is that there will be at least one more no-hitter and, if the odds are right, pick Ewell Blackwell of the Cincinnati Reds to toss it.

The low-hit ball games are popping up frequently this spring and the tall and terrific Blackwell was the latest to score a "near-miss" when he one-hit the Boston Braves 1 to 0 last night as Vern Bickford gave up only two hits in defeat.

The Cincy fans had a teeming anticipation for a while of a double no-hit battle since neither ace gave up a safe blow until Bob Elliott, an old spoiler, nicked Blackwell for a fifth inning double. Blackwell preserved his no-hitter until the sixth when Connie Ryan doubled, but in the seventh, Blackwell's battery-mate, John Pramesa, hit a homer and that was the whole story.

Blackwell, in winning his fifth straight game, struck out five and each of the three men he walked was nailed in a double play. Bickford struck out four and walked only one.

Blackwell, like Blackie, would be a good man to pick for a no-hit job since he turned in the only one of 1950 and had a two-hit victory this year before last night's heart-break defeat. Blackwell, who had a no-hitter in 1947, also had two one-hitters last season.

In other National League games yesterday Brooklyn topped Chicago 8 to 4; the Phillies edged the Cardinals 5 to 4 and Pittsburgh defeated the Giants 7 to 3. In the American League the Tigers downed Washington 12 to 4.

Statisticians who questioned a cross-section of average men and women found 44 per cent bet on major horse races and 39 per cent took part in football pools. Only 4.1 per cent had a flutter on the dogs.

Horse-race betting took an estimated $1,060,000 ($400,000-000) to $1,100,000 ($574,000-000) a year, while annual stakes on football pools totalled $140,000,000.

The football pools—in which competitors try to forecast weekly results—were the little man's pleasure. The regular pools enthusiast staked between $11 and $14 a year, but the regular horse race bettor wagered $112 or more.

BRITISH SURVEY FINDS THREE OUT OF FOUR BET

LONDON (Reuters)—Three adults in every four in Britain bet on horses, dogs or football games, government statistics revealed today.

An official report said betting in Britain is an "almost universal habit."

Statisticians who questioned a cross-section of average men and women found 44 per cent bet on major horse races and 39 per cent took part in football pools. Only 4.1 per cent had a flutter on the dogs.

Horse-race betting took an estimated $1,060,000 ($400,000-000) to $1,100,000 ($574,000-000) a year, while annual stakes on football pools totalled $140,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart H. Evans

NEW VICTORIANS

by Gwen Cash

It took the dreadful Texas city explosion at Galveston and eight Canadian corvettes to bring Mr. and Mrs. Stewart H. Evans to Victoria. Now they have bought a house at 2005 Romney, become ardent gardeners and Mr. Evans has established a business here, though his idea when he came to town was retirement.

Stewart Evans who was named on the King's Birthday List in 1950 is an Englishman with a dash of Irish blood. His wife, Eleanor Ristine, was born in Indiana. In World War One, Stewart served with the Royal Munster Fusiliers. In 1921 he went to Galveston and entered the shipping business. In 1936 he was appointed British vice-consul for Texas and New Mexico, opened a shipping firm, became a Fellow of the Institute of Chartered Shipbrokers of London, England. In 1943 he was named a representative for Lloyd's.

The Second World War brought him a lot of responsibilities. His naval staff had eight Canadian corvettes to supervise at times. Officers and men on the corvettes took Mr. and Mrs. Evans of the beauties of Victoria. Mrs. Evans went to see a brother in Seattle and visited Victoria.

The investigation Mr. Evans had to conduct for Lloyd's on the Texas city disaster left his health impaired. "You must do nothing, absolutely nothing, for two years," said the doctors.

"What about Victoria?" suggested Mrs. Evans.

They sold their home in Galveston and came north. Mr. Evans started Victoria's first and only laundrette.

It all happened because his wife wanted a bunch of dirty clothes washed in a hurry. She looked for a self-serve laundry and found there wasn't one.

"That's for me," said Mr. Evans.

"You're not supposed to do anything for a couple of years," objected his wife.

"It'll be fun. Nothing to it," he retorted. And so it's proved.

Holmes Probes Air Reserve Summer Camp

Sqdn. Ldr. Philip Holmes, commanding officer of Victoria aircraft control unit, is leaving for Edmonton at the weekend to attend a camp of air force reserve commanding officers to arrange summer training camps.

"When I am there I am hoping to get some information about our new headquarters in the Begg Building in Victoria," said Sqdn. Ldr. Holmes. "Although I have as yet had no official news about the purchase I have looked over the building and am satisfied that it can be converted suitably to our use."

Sqdn. Ldr. Holmes said he had been informed tenants had been ordered to vacate the building by the end of May, but so far as he knew no plans had yet been drawn up for the conversion.

New Indian Act Nears Completion

Legislation Unsatisfactory, Not Up To Promises, Says Opposition

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons yesterday neared the end of the road in a five-year search for a new bill of rights for Canada's 135,000 Indians.

It approved 110 of the 124 clauses in the new Indian Act, which had its beginnings in 1946 when a parliamentary committee opened study of means to give the red man more control over his own affairs.

Yesterday—several committees and a half-dozen parliamentary sessions later—it opened final study of the remodeled Indian Act. The legislation still has to go before the Senate, which participated in the earlier committee examinations.

John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) urged the establishment of a Royal Commission to investigate grievances of the Indians many of whom he said, felt that treaty promises made to them had not been carried out.

IMPROVEMENT ONLY George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, felt that the legislation did nothing more than improve an unsatisfactory situation. Basic rights of the Indians should be protected and they should be given opportunities of full citizenship.

Citizenship Minister Harris, sponsoring the legislation, said his department plans to call a conference of Indian representatives within the next two years to study the effects of the legislation.

The chamber voted down several amendments which opposition members suggested would improve the legislation. The chamber also took the first step towards accepting two gifts left to Canada by former Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who died July 22.

It gave first reading to bills

KING OF HOBOES TO SETTLE DOWN IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE (CP)—Jeff Davis, king of United States hobo's and emperor of the hobo's of the world, said today he may retire and settle down in Seattle, the city where he began his travels 55 years ago.

"The road's not what it's cracked up to be. I'm not kidding. I've been around the world six times and if I had to do it all over again, I wouldn't," he said.

The 58-year-old great-grandfather said the 14 packing boxes, two trunks and two brief cases he has to use to handle the records of more than 1,000,000 members of his organization are becoming too much for him.

Jeff's wife and family live in Cincinnati, O.

Scratch Sheet Publisher Guilty

HAMILTON (CP)—A racing scratch sheet published in Hamilton and distributed in several western Ontario cities was described yesterday as an aid to illegal betting.

The building where the sheet, Sporting News, is published, "comes within the definition of a common betting house," said Magistrate Beamer Hopkins.

He convicted the publisher, William H. Shaver, on six counts of keeping a common betting house, publishing information and disseminating information for use in betting.

Arthur G. Taylor, telegraph operator for the paper, charged jointly with Shaver, was found guilty on three counts—keeping common betting house, supplying betting information and receiving by telegraph information relating to betting.

Shaver was sentenced to three months in jail and to fines and costs amounting to $200. Taylor received a two-month sentence.

APPEAL LIKELY

Defence counsel Harry Hazell said an appeal likely will be launched.

The trial of the two men was held at the same time as sittings of the Ontario Legislature Crime Committee in Toronto.

Magistrate Hopkins said he had carefully refrained from listening to, or reading about, the committee's proceedings.

In handing down his decision he said Sporting News "was out-fitted and equipped to assist in betting on racing in the United States and other places outside Canada."

Current U.S. Occupation Of Iceland May Prove Vital In World War III

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
If World War III ever comes, a step taken last week by the U.S. Government may prove to be one of its decisive factors. The step: Occupation of Iceland, at the request and consent of that republic's government.

The strategic importance of Iceland can hardly be overestimated. It is an island in the middle—an island within striking distance of all the key European capitals and of major northern American cities.

AS VITAL AS NOVA SCOTIA

"Iceland probably is almost as important to America's defence as Nova Scotia," says Leo Brannham, Associated Press correspondent there during the early days of World War II. "Because of its position, it is important as an air base. As a matter of fact, the United States was considering using it as a base to bomb Germany in World War II. We would have done so, too, except that we were able to develop many bases closer to the Reich."

"Iceland's rocky coast and many inlets makes it perfect as a submarine base. If the Nazi subs could have used it in the war, they might have prolonged the war for years. On one side of Iceland ran the vital shipping line to Murmansk, carrying lend-lease materials to Russia. On the other side ran the North Atlantic shipping routes to the British Isles."

"As it was, the U-boats caused plenty of trouble. The stretch between Iceland and Ireland and westward was known as 'Submarine Alley.' Troops in Iceland knew how effective these subs were. Once in early 1942, I remember so many supply ships went down that G.I.'s spent six weeks eating nothing but Spam and spuds."

"If the enemy had occupied Iceland and based submarines there, the situation might have been tragic for the Allies. In view of Russia's development of snorkel subs, a similar danger would have existed in a future war unless we got on Iceland first."

Indicative of the changing world is the changing attitude of Icelanders toward foreign occupation troops. In World War I, Icelanders insisted upon remaining neutral, and they did: They rebuffed all efforts of foreigners to set up bases there. In World War II, they accepted—with some reluctance—British, and then the American, occupation troops. (For months, they refused even to speak to Yank G.I.'s; an American patrolling an Iceland merchant had to wait until all the natives were served first.) Now, however, the proud Icelanders are eagerly requesting the Americans to help defend them.

On its own, Iceland is virtually defenceless. It has no army or navy, and its policemen carry no guns. The people have lived in a kind of medieval isolation, speaking a pure language much as it was spoken in the year 1,000. Older people still wear the same kind of clothes worn hundreds of years ago. Icelanders are highly cultured, peace-loving. But they have sadly come to learn that love of peace is a mighty important weapon in this twentieth century world.

DOCTOR SAYS

By Dr. Edwin P. Jordan

Victims of ragweed hay fever who like to plan their vacations so that they can get away from the source of their difficulty might be more comfortable if they started thinking now about where they want to go. In order to get complete relief it is usually necessary to go a long way from where ragweed grows since the pollen is carried for many miles by a strong wind.

There is practically no spot in the middle of the North America continent which is free of ragweed or which cannot be reached by the pollen when the wind is wrong. However, the amount of ragweed on the ground, and of pollen in the air, is not high in many parts of Northern Wisconsin, Minnesota, the northern peninsula of Michigan and corresponding areas of Canada. Many hay fever sufferers get at least partial relief from places in these regions or on islands in the Great Lakes.

The Pacific shore from Alaska on down is apt to be pleasant since there is little or no ragweed growing there. Most parts of Arizona and New Mexico and Eastern and Southern Florida are considered good spots. The northern and western part of Maine is also claimed to be free from ragweed and some parts of New Hampshire likewise. These areas should be satisfactory except when pollen is brought in by the wind from somewhere else.

Many of the national parks are good places to get away from hay fever.

AWAY FROM IT ALL

Going still farther afield, one may mention the European continent and the British Isles which are free of ragweed and where complete relief is the rule.

Mexico City is another foreign spot which is highly favorable for the hay fever sufferer. With all these places to select and with the time to go, anyone who wants to can get away from his misery pretty successfully.

Roll-Your-Own Cigarets More Popular

Wholesale tobacconists here today said it will take some time before they can gauge whether the recent tax hike has resulted in a drop in the volume of cigarettes that flow to the retail stores.

Some store owners say that a few old customers view the "two-cent cigarette" as a luxury and have either stopped smoking or switched to the roll-your-own variety.

It is not unusual to hear a former smoker say he hasn't smoked a tag for two weeks and that he is laying off them for good—or until the price comes down, if ever.

RAT CLARK, Manager.

There was a rush in buying by stores and individuals just before the government tax raised the price of a pack of 20 to 41 cents that it will probably take a month to level off so we can tell whether there has been a drop in volume," said one wholesaler.

It is likely, however, that tobacco sales will be up. Two of the wholesalers reported an increased demand for papers. One said this might be attributed to the fact that they were in short supply for a while.

Chinese May Be Playing For Draw In Korea

3 Alternatives For 'Supreme Effort'

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Foreign News Editor

Many battlefield commanders in Korea now are convinced the Chinese Communists have abandoned hope of winning an all-out victory and are playing for a draw.

They want to save face and cut their losses. Their technique would be to try to deny North Korea to the United Nations army by building a strong defensive alignment on or near the 38th parallel.

Front-line dispatches say the present build-up of Communist troops could lead to three courses of action by the enemy:

1. An all-out offensive, with air support, designed to try to drive our troops back down to Pusan and into the sea.

2. Start a five-day offensive, the objective of which would be to gain some territory at the cost of thousands of casualties. The sole purpose of the attack would be to put Peiping in a good bargaining position in event of a negotiated peace.

3. Build up a protective wall for North Korea and settle down indefinitely on that line.

If the Chinese Reds have been hurt badly and want to reduce the loss of their best troops, No. 3 would have many attractions for them. They could claim a victory. They could say that the U.N. army was invading North Korea and threatening Manchuria at the time of the "home by Christmas" offensive. This so incensed the Chinese that thousands of volunteers grabbed guns and marched into North Korea to repel the invaders. That job has now been done. The U.N. army is back in South Korea, the status quo has been restored and the next move is up to Washington and Lake Success.

It would be a tough move for our side to make. If we pulled our troops out, the Communists would be over the parallel again as soon as the last soldier sailed from Pusan for Japan. If we left our army in South Korea, it would

United Nations Forces Are Unanimous There Is Only One Word To Describe Korean Weather—Foul

Only few days ago forces were shivering in sub-zero weather like this.

Comes spring and what do you get? Semi-tropical heat that forces troops to operate wearing only shorts, like these New Zealand artillerymen loading a camouflaged gun during a "hot" tilt with the enemy.

But with spring comes rain—bone-chilling rain that sends troops to cover like these Yanks. And it turns terrain into sticky muck through which men and vehicles can navigate only with greatest difficulty.

FIERCE FIGHTERS, TOO

Refugee Korean Houseboys Make Soldiering Easier, Pats Find

By BILL BOSS
WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—There's one way to make soldiering in Korea easy: Get a houseboy.

A good one is worth every cent he earns: Usually $5 a month. A poor one is no trouble at all. Simply turn him loose and pick another in a country full of candidates.

The houseboy is the one touch about this theatre which makes one wish armies always campaigned in countries like Korea. There's nothing at all to soldiering—except the actual fighting—when there's someone to polish your boots, wash your clothes, make your bed, clean your tent (if you have one), brew tea or coffee at intervals during the day, and generally anticipate most of your personal needs. Hot water for shaving in the morning, for instance.

And when he cleans your weapon, or keeps your vehicle spotless and well maintained—including greased and checked regularly—you've got a gem.

And all for 30,000 won ($5) a month.

SOME WORK FOR NOTHING

There are many who don't get even that. Happy to come along as part of a unit, working their passage in return for food, clothing and a "home" in time of war, they would be embarrassed at accepting money from men by whom they now are accorded the status of fellow soldiers.

Individual riflemen, naturally, haven't their own houseboys—whose ages vary from 15 to 25. But usually there's one to each platoon and three in each company kitchen.

More self-contained parts of a battalion, however, like the intelligence section, the headquarters of the mortar, machinegun and pioneer platoons, the pay office and the signals office, do keep their own.

As do a few favored individuals such as R.S.M. Les Grimes of the 2nd Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, who comes from Edmonton.

The battalion draws no extra rations for the boys, but army food is plentiful in the theatre and their presence is no embarrassment. But real scrounging is needed to equip the lads with army gear—and the resulting turn-outs are a cross between Canadian, American and Korean army uniforms.

But the boys appreciate anything that differentiates them from "civilians" and helps them to feel they "belong." They aren't allowed to wear regimental badges or flashes but anything else their "masters" can get for them is allowed.

Distinct among the Patricia's boys is 14-year-old Cho Nam-soum, special pride of a section at battalion headquarters led by Cpl. Garvin "Bud" Smith of Vancouver. Cho, a neglected refugee from the Chongju area, first appeared in the battalion area, as a conscripted "riceburner" or bearer. Smith's section decided he was too small for hill-climbing with heavy loads and adopted him as houseboy.

Cho so endeared himself by his industry and willingness that Smith decided to make a little Canadian of him. He asked his mother in Vancouver to get him a complete outfit for the boy, and today Cho swaggers about battalion headquarters in a suit of blue denim overalls touched off with a scarlet neckerchief, Canadian running shoes, and he has a whole range of underwear, socks and shirts.

When not working, Cho, in straw hat and overalls, follows the C.O. around as his "armed guard," a U.S. army carbine over his shoulder—but without a magazine.

Pte. Mel Canfield, of New Westminster, is completing Cho's get-up by having a couple of cowboy-type six-shooters sent from home for him.

A more warlike role is discharged by the other, older, boys, such as Yong Sang-rock, known as "Pete," 24, and Moon "Joe" Pyong-hee, 17. They also started off as riceburners, but after palling around with the machine-guns under Capt. Andy Foulds of Vancouver were taken on as platoon houseboys.

KILLED 10 OF ENEMY

Pete and Joe would not tolerate being left behind whenever the unit went into the line. They got together their own equipment, went forward with the platoon, regularly dug their own slit trenches and manned them.

And when the Patricia's were surrounded April 24 and fought the Chinese spring offensive to a standstill in the west central sector, Pete and Joe between them killed 10 of the enemy.

Said Pte. Pete Boldt of Simcoe, Ont., afterward: "They're part of us now. We wouldn't lose them for the world."

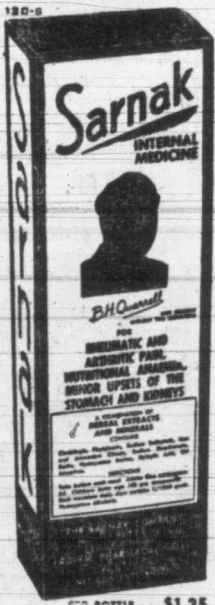

ANOTHER 329 U.S. CASUALTIES

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defence Department today identified 329 more American casualties in the Korean war.

The 304th casualty report included 25 dead, 257 wounded, 29 injured and 18 missing.

New U.N. Intelligence Chief Now In Tokyo

TOKIO (UP)—Brig. Gen. Riley Finley Ennis arrived here today to take over as intelligence chief of the United Nations Command. He succeeds Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, Gen. MacArthur's former assistant chief of staff, who is expected to testify before Congress upon his return to the United States.

Noisy Welcome For Korea Veterans

CAMP STONEMAN, Calif. (UP)—A group of 1,442 army men—the second group to return on rotation leave from the fighting in Korea—hurried through processing today in anticipation of going home.

The officers and men, most of them veterans of the first bitter days of withdrawal fighting against the Communists, arrived in San Francisco yesterday aboard the transport Lt. Raymond Beaudoin.

The soldiers were greeted by the traditional noisy welcome from harbor vessels and airplanes. Then they hurried down the gangway into the arms of 1,000 relatives who had jammed the pier.

After brief dockside ceremonies they were transported to the processing centre here where army officials promised to have them on their way to their homes within 48 hours.

OIL MAKES A COUNTRY STRONG

THE ROUGHNECKS ARE MOVING ON!

In the language of the oil fields, "roughnecks" are the men of the drilling crews who probe deep in the earth for oil. You'll find them in any oil field doing the hard tedious work that goes into the drilling of every well.

But roughnecks like it best when the going is roughest and most exciting—when they move on to search for oil where it has never been found. In Alberta the odds are against them, only one wildcat well in 20 is likely to be successful.

Working against these odds, "roughnecks" drills have tapped more than a billion barrels of new oil in Alberta since 1947, bringing new prosperity and new security to all Canada. In fact Canadians now produce one in every three barrels they use—but we still must depend on foreign countries for the other two. To be self-sufficient we must have three times our present reserves.

The roughnecks keep moving on in the unending search for oil. As they succeed they benefit and strengthen the entire nation.

About Canada's Oil

Before discovering the Leduc field in 1947, Imperial drilled 133 exploratory wells in western Canada—all dry—over a period of almost 30 years.

The cost of an exploratory well varies from about $100,000 to more than $1 million.

It is estimated the oil industry will spend $200 millions on exploration and development in the prairies this year.

Mulliner Opposes Span 'Scare' Here

Ald. Frank Mulliner, Tuesday, took exception to a morning paper's "scare headline and story" stating collapse of the wooden bridge at Cowichan Lake had spurred concern over the need for a new Point Ellice Bridge in the city.

"The two are entirely unrelated," the alderman declared. "We need a new bridge, it's true, but there is no question as to the safety of the present structure."

B.C. Boy Dies In Two-Car Smash

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP)—A two-car smashup on the highway 21 miles north of here took the life of a 12-year-old Vancouver, B.C., boy Tuesday night and sent five others to hospital with undetermined injuries.

Police identified the boy as Stanley Jones. Injured were his father, James Henry Pennington Jones, 40, and his mother, Beatrice; two sisters, Carolyn, 9, and Frances, 3; and W. A. Bassett, 32, of Spokane.

Police said the Bassett car apparently rammed into the rear of the Jones car.

Goodness, How Time Flies—'Child Star' Expecting Again

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Exclusively Yours: Former child star Cara Sue Collins, now happily married and living in Reno, Nevada, is expecting her second stork bundle late this month. ... Olivia de Havilland's TV debut in a scene from "Romeo and Juliet" was preceded by tests almost as elaborate as those staged before exploding an atom bomb. The lady wanted to see first how she would televise.

After six weeks of his concert tour, Mario Lanza shed 27 pounds. ... Bob Crosby, planning a long summer vacation, suddenly remembered he'll be a father for the fifth time in October. He immediately signed up for two theatre dates in Chicago in July. ... The talk persists that Charlie Chaplin is dickering to buy an island off the coast of Lower California. Where he'll retire?

Judy Holiday's Oscar victory has at least three Billie Dawns (her name in the picture) being offered to studios by agents. ... Actor Jerry Parris (some say he's Shelley Winter's real heart-beat) gave up his movie career and is now back in New York as a TV player.

It'll be a meaner-than-ever Dan Duryea in his next movie, "Models, Inc." I got it straight from the producer, Hal E. Chester. Dan's big moment in the film, says Hal, will be a "new type of love scene. He's got his girl in his arms and gives her a kiss and three slugs in the back with his revolver."

Carmen Needed Elevation Presto! Platform Shoes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—If Roy Rogers and Gene Autry can do it, so can Carmen Miranda.

I don't mean that the Brazilian Bombshell is going to hop on a pinto and head thataway. But she may copy the commercial cowpokes in their business ventures.

Already there is a Carmen Miranda coloring book for kids. Plans were underway for a Carmen Miranda doll, but got side-tracked. Other ventures may be reaching the sales counters. At any rate, Carmen says she is ready for them.

"People have made enough money from things I have dreamed up," she remarked. "So why shouldn't Carmen make something, too?"

ALL BIG HITS

Among the Miranda inventions which others have capitalized on are platform shoes, fancy turbans and heavy costume jewelry.

"These things made a tremendous hit when I first came to this country," she recalled. "All over New York they were copying my styles. They had big windows in the stores with my picture in them."

TALL MEN

I asked her how she conceived her famed trade marks.

"The platform shoes came about because I liked tall men," she replied. "In Brazil, I always liked the big boys from the beaches. But whenever I danced with them, I couldn't see over their shoulders. I couldn't tell if they were flirting with another girl while they were dancing with me."

"One day I saw a woman walking in the street. She had a shortened leg, so one shoe was built up to make her walk correctly. That gave me the idea. I went to my shoemaker and told him to make me two built-up shoes."

Communism Inquiry In Hollywood Re-Opened

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee renewed its Communism in Hollywood investigation today by calling four more film figures to testify.

The witnesses were writer Leonardo Bercovici, actors Alvin Hammer and Lloyd Gough, and Bea Winter, former secretary to a Hollywood agent. Bercovici and Miss Winter were identified as Communists during earlier testimony.

The hearings, reopened after a three-week layoff, were expected to continue tomorrow and possibly Friday and about three days next week.

One committee member said novelist Budd Schulberg, named in earlier testimony as a one-time Communist, might appear this week.

STARS TO SEE TROOPS—TOKYO (UP)—Screen star Jennifer Jones was scheduled to arrive here tomorrow night for a personal appearance tour of army, navy and air force hospitals in Japan and Korea.

Comedian Jack Benny is expected the last week in June. Mrs. Hopkins collected the pay-off on the 13-week guessing contest last night by saying "Grandma Hush" was Mrs. George M. Cohan, widow of the famed song-and-dance man.

ARTS CENTRE EXHIBIT

Stunning Color Use In Jones' Paintings

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

A Liberal education in the mutations and relationship of color awaits visitors to the Arts Centre gallery on Broughton Street, with the opening of the exhibition of paintings by Petley Jones.

The Edmonton-born artist who has studied and painted extensively in Britain and Europe and is highly regarded in British art circles, is represented by an interesting collection of oils and water colors, done within the last four or five years.

Anyone who thinks of red as red, and blue as blue, will be startled to see what can happen to simple primary colors when manipulated by a man for whom color is a powerful, rhythmic force. The great, rich-toned canvases entitled "Dark Wood", gives an incredible picture of overpowering gloom of opulent growth.

The work, as a whole, suggests a restlessness on the part of an artist. He has expressed himself vehemently in several styles, two 1950 portraits being quite different to some of his former work. His awareness of rhythm and design in all things, the vigor of his brush and its masculinity, has resulted in the emphatic projection of his subjects into defined planes. The painting of rural France with three girl figures in the foreground shows the stunning use of small areas of amethyst and orange. There is great variety of form and design in each picture and evidence of the most sterling craftsmanship.

The exhibition will continue for two weeks.

Radio Merger Of Networks Falls Through

NEW YORK (UP)—Edward J. Noble, American Broadcasting Company board chairman, has officially rejected an offer from Columbia Broadcasting System to buy the A.B.C. radio and television networks.

"The merger of A.B.C. and C.B.S. was abandoned by my associates and myself," Noble said, "although it was very attractive, both financially and otherwise." C.B.S. was reported to have offered $28,000,000 for A.B.C. facilities.

Noble said he also had turned down two other offers to buy A.B.C. One was to purchase his 53 per cent of the company's stock and the other was an offer from United Paramount Theatres, Inc., to acquire A.B.C. by a stock merger.

The C.B.S. deal, Noble said, was dropped because the merger would weaken the A.B.C. radio and television stations not taken over by C.B.S. after the merger. C.B.S. was barred by F.C.C. rules from acquiring duplicate facilities in cities where both it and A.B.C. have radio and T.V. outlets.

French Version Of Wilder Play Praised At Festival

LONDON, Ont. (P)—Julien Buisson's 27th birthday turned out to be an especially happy one—partly because of what the Dominion Drama Festival adjudicator said about his acting.

The young accountant from Three Rivers, Que., was the "stage manager" in last night's production by Les Compagnons de Notre Dame of a French translation of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town."

In his remarks, Adjudicator Jose Ruben singled Mr. Buisson out for special mention. Speaking in French, he said the latter did "exceptionally well," playing with aplomb and intelligence.

In fact, the entire cast of the Three Rivers company put on an exceptionally good performance for an amateur group.

BRIDGE LESSON

by Oswald Jacoby

Today's hand was played in a recent team match, and the slam in spades was bid at both tables. However, it should be stated that one of the North players did not consider his hand worth an opening bid.

In both rooms the opening lead was the ten of clubs, won in the South hand. Each declarer drew three rounds of trumps, finessed the queen of diamonds, and laid down the ace of diamonds. Then there was a big difference.

In the first room West played the five of diamonds on the first round of that suit and dropped the jack when dummy led the ace of diamonds. Declarer decided to ruff a diamond in the hope that West had only the king left. If that plan failed he could later stake success on a heart finesse.

Since the diamonds actually fell favorably, the first declarer made all 13 tricks.

In the second room West dropped the king of diamonds when dummy led the ace. This persuaded the declarer at that table that the two remaining diamonds were held by East. In that case it could do no good to ruff a diamond. A better plan, he thought, was to take a heart finesse and to use the ace of clubs for a second heart finesse. Hence he abandoned the diamonds and finessed the ten of hearts. West naturally won with the jack and returned a club. Dummy won with the ace and returned a heart so that South could finesse the queen. This also lost, and the slam was set.

What is the moral of our little tale? It can be very simple or very complicated. In the average bridge game, West should drop the king in this situation when he wants declarer to abandon the suit. Most declarers will assume that the suit is split 4-2 rather than 3-3. It costs nothing to drop the king when you also have the jack. If South and West are both experts, there is no such thing as a "correct" play. It is merely a guessing game. Since there are very few all-expert games, it's not a bad idea to remember West's little stratagem for future use.

By ART STOTT

In a day when jobs were hard to get, they told the story of the young fellow who was looking for work in a carnival. He told the owner he had the most sensational stunt in the world—a 100-foot dive onto a moist sponge. The showman was dubious and asked for a demonstration. The kid put a bath sponge on the ground, climbed up a ladder and leaped off, head first.

The showman was wildly enthusiastic. He raced over to the youngster lying with his head on the sponge. "That was terrific," he said. "When can you start?"

The kid was a little doubtful. "I dunno. That's the first time I tried it, and something seems to have gone wrong with my neck."

If you're old enough, you'd remember the story when you read this week's Saturday Evening Post article, "Fancy Diving Only Looks Like Fun." It leaves you with the impression that the kid who wanted the carnival job is a fair example of the type who look upon springboard and tower diving as sport. You get the idea they're all nutty as fruitcake—would have to be to go in for the game.

Maybe they are. Some folks in the aquatic field say a diver's a swimmer with his brains knocked out. Just the same, I know a guy, know him quite well, who tried to dive competitively for 10 years. If you put a pair of specs on him now, he still looks as intelligent as the average man you'd see on the corner of Yates and Douglas. He feels a little hurt, too, when the cynics talk that way about diving and divers.

Of course, Al Stump, the writer, has dealt with women divers in this week's Post. There is quite a lot to his argument.

STUMP SAYS A lot of the top-notchers wind up with injury charts that make an ice-hockey badman's physical record look as soft and fluffy as angel cake. Sure they take their bumps But nobody lives forever.

Pat Keller McCormick, reigning queen of the diving girls, has had more than her share of bad luck. Stump reports that a check-up made on her some time ago disclosed "a six-inch, healed-over scalp wound, all of her upper front teeth chipped, several mysterious scars above the base of her spine, fresh lacerations of the feet and elbows, a once-cracked rib and broken finger, and a loose jaw that threatened to pop from its hinges."

Well, what's so unfeminine about a loose jaw? Lots of girls have 'em. Boys, too.

WHAT THE POST writer has proved, though, and the guy I know who used to dive agrees with him, is that tower work is no job for a lady. When you get 10 metres up in the air, you're only about 35 feet up. That isn't much if you look out of a fourth story office building window. When you're on a tower, it's different. Usually you can see the reflection in the water of the tower and it gives the impression of going down as far as it goes up. That makes it feel 70 feet high.

Down below you is a layer of cumulus and under that, far, far away, is a pool in the planet they call Earth. The guy I know who used to dive and who hated towers, always wondered how he'd arrived up on top when he climbed one. He was too proud to climb down—and almost frightened to go off. He used to sing that hymn "Nearer My God to Thee," and he sang it fervently.

ACTUALLY, PLAIN diving from 35 feet isn't much if you can get over that feeling you've left your stomach behind when you take off. The actual impact on your shoulders, if you strike the water right, isn't any worse than being hit on the collar bone with a baseball bat at the end of a homerun swing.

Off three metres—that's about 10 feet—the whole thing's a cinch. Why, many a kid has suffered more from his old man in the woodshed than a diver suffers when he tries to prove that it's possible to land on the water without going under.

YOU MIGHT THINK diving is no sport for girls. If you'd seen Georgia Coleman when she was at the Crystal Garden back in 1930, or had watched the later stars, Zoe Ann Olsen, Helen Crenkovich and Vicki Draves in the newsreels, you'd be inclined to revise your opinion. They give diving that something extra—even if they've taken their bumps in the process.

And when you see exhibitions like the ones given by Al Patnik, who comes over from Seattle occasionally, Joe Moreno and "Slippy" Browning, you wonder what's so tough about the game. They make it look easy. But then the Fourth Dimension isn't too hard for one or two men, either.

JOHN A. R. COOPE

JOHN B. NUTTALL

Three Victoria Students, Duncan Girl, Win Special Honors At U.B.C.

Three U.B.C. students from Victoria and one from Duncan won four of five special fellowships and bursaries announced by the university today in addition to annual scholarships and awards.

They are: David A. Aaronson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Aaronson, 1414 Elford Street.

John A. R. Coope, son of Mrs. R. Coope, 1811 Chandler Street.

John B. Nuttall, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. B. MacIvridge, 2934 Orilla Street, formerly of Gananoque, Ont.

Margaret Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Barr, Duncan.

Aaronson and Coope each won $900 National Research Council fellowship to continue their studies in science.

Aaronson, 29, was born here and educated at local schools. He attended one year at Victoria College prior to joining the R.C.A.F. as a radio mechanic in World War II. He served overseas four years, returning to complete a second year of training at the College and to continue studies at U.B.C. and University of Western Ontario. He holds a master's of arts degree from U.B.C. and B. Sc. from Ontario, and is now working for his doctorate.

Nuttall, who won the Athlete Fellowship, will attend Marshall University at Aberdeen in the fall working towards his Ph. D. in mechanical engineering. He has been specializing in hydraulics. A navigation officer in the R.C.A.F. before he was 18, Nuttall met his wife of a year and a half, the former Ruth MacIvridge, at U.B.C. where she graduated with a B.A. She is taking a teaching post in Aberdeen while her husband attends university.

DESIGNED SCALE MODEL. Nuttall designed and built the scale model of the floor of Alberni Canal, showing the tides of the district, which recently was displayed at the Departure Bay biological station.

The Duncan winner, Miss Barr, receives a $600 National Research Bursary to continue her studies in biology and botany. A corporal in the C.W.A.C. in World War II, with overseas service, the Duncan girl took her matriculation at the Tyee Army Camp school of D.V.A. and later went to Victoria College.

Men involved in the dispute are members of the Street Railwaymen's Union. Should they decide to go through with their strike threat, patrons of Veteran Stages' transportation service would be given ample warning, a union spokesman said today.

Victoria Times Host To Premier

Premier Byron Johnson visited Victoria Daily Times today and showed keen interest in AP Wirephoto, U.S.-Canadian wire hook-up which provides paper with high-quality photographs of world news events within minutes of happening. News Editor Dave Driver explains setup while City Editor Dick Praul looks on. Mr. Johnson, guest of Publisher Stuart Keate and Editor Bruce Hutchison, toured Victoria Press Ltd. plant and offered paper best wishes on new undertakings.

Bus-Line Drivers Still Study New Wage Offer

Bus drivers of Veteran Stage Ltd., today still studied terms of a new company wage offer made Tuesday.

The terms, put forward to forestall possible strike action, were outlined to six drivers and one mechanic at a special union meeting Tuesday afternoon. The men asked for time to think it over before voting on acceptance or rejection.

Another meeting of the union will be held late today at which the offer before the men would provide an 11-cent hourly increase for work performed this month and an additional four-cent increase to take effect next month and carry on until the end of 1952. The company has offered to take up other union requests before the end of the year.

Will Continue To Picket At Sash Factory

Ten former employees of Builders' Sash and Door Ltd., 350 Garbally Road, reported at the plant this morning and removed tools and other personal belongings.

Action by the men came on recommendation of officials of their union, the International Woodworkers of America, after a police court decision, handed down Tuesday, dismissed their charge that the joinery had locked them out.

It was learned from union officials the men would continue to picket the Builders' Sash & Door plant as they have done since April 9 despite the police court decision.

Officials of the firm, meanwhile, indicated a Supreme Court injunction might be applied for to end the picketing.

Beer Price Hike Causes Rush

Many Victorians laid in a stock of beer Tuesday at the Johnson Street liquor store to beat the 5-cent per case price increase effective today, store officials said today.

Price was advanced from $2.35 to $2.40 per case, with the 7-cent sales tax remaining the same.

Price now is $2.47 per dozen. Price in beer parlors rose from $3.24 to $3.30 plus 10 cents sales tax. Price per bottle is now 29 cents instead of 28, but the 10-cent price per glass will remain unchanged.

'Beds To Spare' At Hospital Here

Royal Jubilee Hospital Reveals Co-Insurance Having Useful Effect

For the first time since inauguration of the Hospital Insurance Service in 1948 Royal Jubilee Hospital has no waiting list and beds to spare, Dr. Murray Anderson, medical administrator, said today.

"Co-insurance is having a very useful effect, although it is not the whole story," Dr. Anderson said.

"This time of year is usually slack, he said, since winter colds and allied diseases have passed. In addition the hospital has another 16 beds made available this year.

"We always took emergency cases immediately," Dr. Anderson pointed out, "but those in less critical condition often had to wait. At no time, though, did a patient's ability to pay decide his place on the waiting list."

The hospital has 500 beds and bassinets, he said. There are vacancies now in every department but the children's ward.

Dr. Anderson said the co-insurance charge of $3.50 per day is not added to hospital revenue, but is deducted from the amount the hospital would ordinarily receive from the B.C.H.S.

Drug Peddling Probe Launched After Arrest

Possession of 95 capsules of morphine worth $400 retail has led investigators to believe Yong Yet Ming, 55-year-old Victoria Chinese, is a drug peddler, Crown Counsel J. Alan Baker said in city police court today.

To allow time to check up on Ming's record through the R.C.M.P. narcotics files in Ottawa, Magistrate H. C. Hall granted Mr. Baker's request that Yong be remanded to May 22 for sentence.

Yong was arrested by R.C.M.P. officers near his home Sunday.

Too Much Labor In Labor Saving

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuters).—American labor-saving kitchens are fun to work in, but they "make such a labor of labor-saving," Mrs. Marjorie MacKendrick, 50, said tonight.

"American kitchens are over-mechanized," she said on return from an 11-month tour of the United States as a cook-house-keeper.

"The first kitchen I worked in had so many gadgets I was afraid of turning around in case I touched a button and started something whirling. You spend as much time taking apart and cleaning a gadget as you would if you did the particular job yourself," she said.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Too Many Young Persons Are Heart Disease Victims

American battle deaths in world war two were around 320,000. During the duration of the war more than 2,000,000 people died of diseases of the heart or circulatory system. One out of three deaths is due to heart disease and almost one out of every two deaths, after the age of 40, is from the same cause.

In 1900 cardiovascular disease caused only 15 per cent of deaths. From 1935-1939 49 per cent of deaths were due to heart of circulatory diseases, while today 61 per cent of deaths are accounted for by them.

These figures are not quite so bad as they seem before investigation. We must remember that while it is conceded that strain, worry and tension, can cause heart trouble yet the fact that so many people are living so much longer is a big factor in the jump in per centage. More people are saved from other disorders. More live long enough to die of heart trouble.

There is one thing which gives us cause for thought however. There are many more people dying of heart trouble in the mid-

British Women Approve Ontario Bill Giving Women Equal Pay

LONDON (CP).—Members of British Commonwealth League have approved a bill passed in the Ontario Legislature last March assuring women of that province equal pay for equal work.

The league decided to send a congratulatory telegram to Miss Margaret Hyndman, K.C., of Toronto, who was described as having played a leading part in getting the bill passed.

Mrs. R. J. Marshall, president of Canada's National Council of Women, told the league's 18th annual conference that the Ontario bill shows the way to the world in the fight for equal pay, which is expected to be carried a stage further at a June meeting in Geneva of the International Labor Organization.

Mrs. Marshall said the status of women in Canada is controlled provincially. Quebec was perhaps the worst province for discrimination against women, but there was one legal point there for which women throughout Canada were fighting—the right to half the husband's property.

She recently attended an international meeting of women's councils at Athens. She plans to return to Canada May 16 by ship from Glasgow.

Nylon Cool Sacks

LONDON (CP).—Housewives in East London couldn't believe it. The coolman was clean and his sacks were white.

The explanation, as given by a nylon company spokesman: "We have been experimenting with nylon cool sacks for some time. They are lighter, more supple and much stronger than the usual sacks and they can be hosed down for cleaning purposes."

Nylon overalls will also be widely used, the spokesman predicted. Production of nylon stockings will not be affected because a coarse type of nylon is used.

MARY HAWORTH

Likes Man She Met On Blind Date; Should She Chase Him?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have a job in this city, but my home is in another town; and my problem concerns a man I met there, on a blind date, within the past year. On week-ends, few and far between, I have opportunity to get home; but it is difficult for me to let John know of my visits there. He shows interest in me when he knows I am there; mutual friends tell me that he inquires about me between visits—as to when I am coming, etc.

Despite these signs of interest on his part, I continue to feel I am jumping at conclusions, in thinking he might care especially for me. If he really cared, wouldn't he try to reach me in the city where I work?

Would I be justified in taking a more active role in seeing him? Isn't it true that some men have to be led to the altar? We both are older people, and I am anxious to settle down. And I know we could be happy together, once he admitted that marriage is in the cards for him.

Might I, with propriety, write to him when I plan a trip home? The truth is I've never been terribly popular with men and I shrink from taking the initiative. Perhaps I need more confidence. Please advise me.—B. L.

SUCCESS IS GAINED BY CONFIDENT BID

DEAR B. L.: A widely-known fashion authority is quoted in the current issue of a national magazine as saying: "A job and a husband are two things you have to get for yourself." There is much wisdom in the statement, which tells us by implication that well-meant advice concerning these vital pursuits may be more misleading than helpful, if it spurs a woman to act out of character.

Mindful of the aforementioned risk, I hesitate to urge the initiative in courtship upon you, if you shrink uncertainly from the assignment. Self-confidence is indispensable to success, in that undertaking, whether man or woman is doing the hunting. I am sure you've heard the saying "Faint heart ne'er won a fair lady." And it is equally true that "Faint heart ne'er won a bashful (or introverted) fellow."

A study of achievements in any generation will show that the fruits of endeavor, or the rewards of industry, usually go to persons who assume they will attain their objectives—regardless of obstructionist views to the contrary, held by others. Invariably, success is due in large part to the fact that some confident man or woman thinks and plans almost exclusively along lines of having the big dream come true.

My advice is to recognize the value of "faith with works." When you are confidently expecting the best of life, asking in hope of receiving, seeking in hope of finding, and knocking in hope that the door of opportunity is ajar for you, then you will be in a constructive mood to manifest go-getter interest in John. It is the spirit of the endeavor that counts, and when the spirit is right, you are lifted above anxious concern about "what to do" and "how to act" and "whether to write," etc.—M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Times.

National Delegate—Mrs. J. L. Ford was appointed delegate to National meeting of I.O.D.E. in Saskatoon at recent meeting of Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter, I.O.D.E. Transit Workers Seek Action On Service Cut

B.C. Electric Service Inadequate,
Say Union Men; Elections July 6

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 3,000-member Street Railway-men's Union (T.L.C.) last night called for public action to fight announced service reductions by the B.C. Electric Company.

Union officers termed the service "wholly inadequate." Following announcement of the cutbacks, a minority group in the union criticized their officers for not fighting the company policy.

Because of this, union business agent Al Jennings, said the executive has recommended that new elections be held July 6. A referendum ballot of the membership will be held May 25.

If the recommendation is endorsed, the 12 officers will step down—at least temporarily—and a new slate returned July 6.

Petitioners Ask Car Storage Area On McClure St.

Use of the large block of property immediately in front of the new B.C. Power Commission Building on McClure Street as a car storage area was suggested to City Council in a petition from owners of property in the block concerned.

A petition from John A. Worthington, 247 Government Street, and 11 other persons, asks council change the present zoning of the property from "apartment use to garage."

The property, bounded by McClure, Blanshard, Burdett and Humboldt, will not develop under present zoning, the petitioners claim.

"With increasing use of property in this direction for commercial and office building purposes, our properties have little value as residential sites. This is a most central and logical location for storage garage facilities."

GLADIOLUS SOCIETY

The B.C. Film Board film, "Springtime in Holland," will be shown at a meeting of the Victoria Gladiolus Society in the City Hall Council Chambers at 8, Thursday night.

Old Memories

WINNIPEG (CP)—Captain Jack Melia, who joined the St. Boniface fire department in 1914, is retiring in June but the 65-year-old fireman says "I feel just as good as 20 years ago." When he became a fireman the brigade used horses instead of trucks.

Heat Wave, Floods Recorded In U.S.

Midwest Families Flee Homes As East Swelters; Snow In Arizona

By United Press

A spring "heat wave" scorched the eastern half of the U.S. today while torrential spring rains flooded rivers in the southwest.

Temperatures were expected to stay near 90 degrees in much of the east, south an midwest, where records were broken at some points yesterday.

But in Kansas, the city of Syracuse was marooned by the rapidly-rising Arkansas River. Red Cross and National Guard units stood by all night at Garden City, where the river's crest was expected today.

The Arkansas, swollen by heavy rains, washed over 100 square miles of pasture and lowland around Syracuse and cut off rail and highway communications to the city.

Twenty families fled their lowland homes around Garden City and spent the night in a Methodist church basement.

The rains sent more rivers soaring in Texas and Oklahoma. The rain gauge brimmed over at D'Hana, Tex., after showing six inches, and the Neuces and Lebna Rivers in Texas and the North Canadian in Oklahoma were rising rapidly.

HOTTEST OF YEAR
On the east coast, New York had its hottest day of the year yesterday with 82 degrees, and the mercury was expected to reach 85 today. At Boston the temperature got up to 89 yesterday, and more of the same was predicted. It was a different story at Flagstaff, Ariz., where a freak storm dropped a six to eight-inch blanket of snow on the mountains yesterday.

Sports Club Steward Succumbs After Plunge

Walter J. Stanley, 45, 819 Fort Street, steward at the Yates Street Sports Club, died late Tuesday night in Jubilee Hospital an hour and a half after plunging down a stairway at the club. Death was caused by a skull fracture.

Constables George Buckle and Nap Bouchard took Stanley to the hospital.

Police reported witnesses as saying Stanley was going up the stairs when the accident occurred. Witnesses were Thomas Enoble, Work Point Barracks, and Q.M.S. Walter Jackson and Morley Legue of H.M.C.S. Naden. Stanley has a daughter, Gladys, living at 948 17th Avenue, Vancouver.

Dr. E. C. Hart will review the case today to see whether an inquest will be required.

OLD LANDMARKS VANISHING

Three Historic Buildings On Inner Harbor Being Razed By Wreckers

The three oldest landmarks on Victoria's Inner Harbor are fast disappearing.

Wreckers are making quick work of the three old houses adjacent to the Legislative Buildings on Government Street where a large car-parking lot is to be established for the Government offices of the area.

First of the three houses, the one closest to the Belleville Street intersection with Government Street, has almost disappeared, but memories of a colorful era surrounding it will long remain.

It was the mansion of David Spencer, founder of the department store chain in British Columbia now owned by the T. Eaton Company.

RECORDS TELL STORY
Records in the Provincial Library tell of the purchase of six parcels of land on the Belleville-Government Street corner by David Spencer from Governor James Douglas in the early 1870's. Spencer built the corner house for his family, a house which was the pride of the city in those early days.

The records show how father Spencer turned over the lot to the south of the family home on Government Street to son Christopher when his eldest boy (still living at Vancouver) married in 1891. Chris Spencer built the second house for his bride.

The third house, to the south of the Chris Spencer home, was built previously by W. G. Cameron who was an alderman of the city at the time. Historians say he purchased the land from David Spencer.

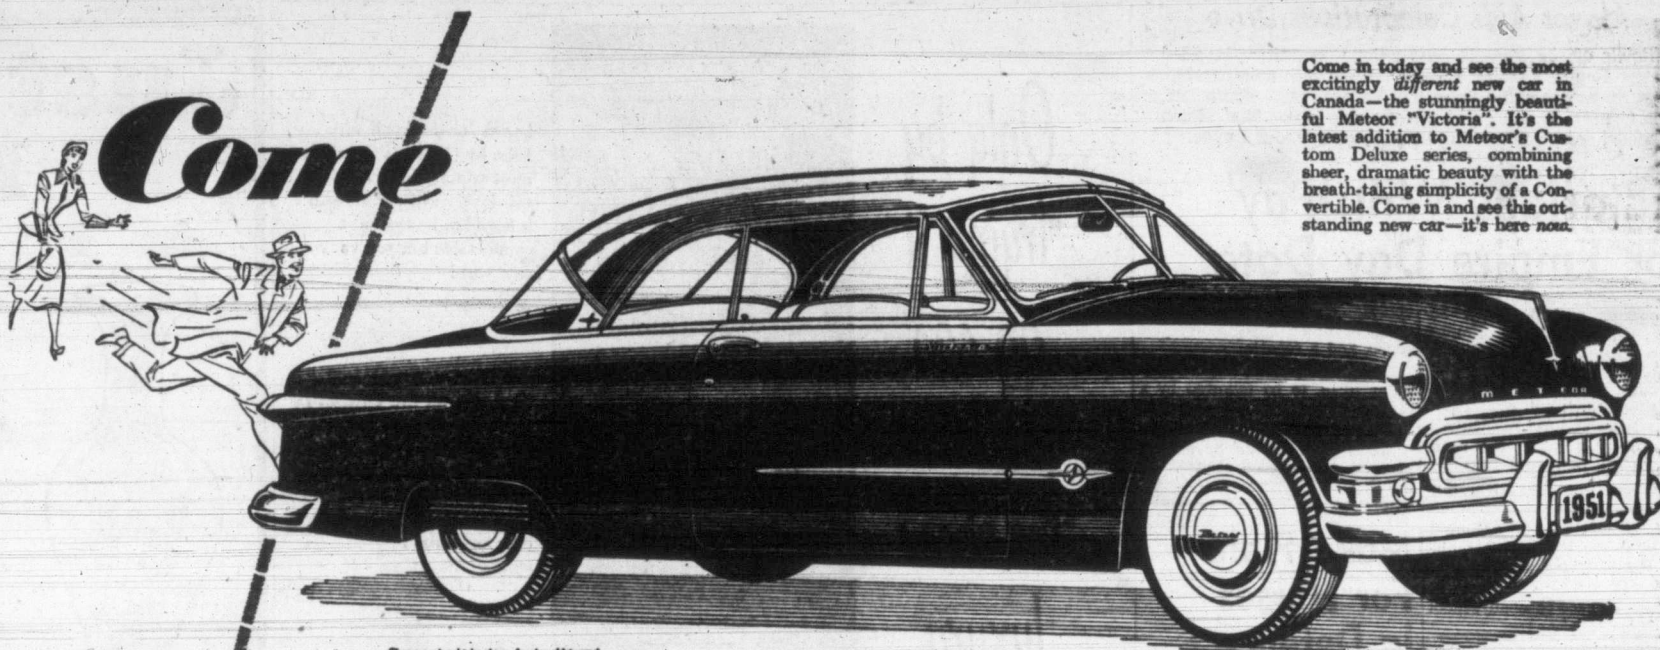

Despite the fact the houses are over 60 years old, much of the lumber in them is in excellent condition, according to workmen who are marvelling at the fine grade of the planks and boards as compared to present-day building material.

* Let your family enjoy cereals, fruits and puddings more, "creamed" with Carnation Evaporated Milk. Undiluted Carnation is rich enough to whip. So "poured on" familiar foods, it makes them taste better than ever before.

Why Carnation is So Good, So Many Ways

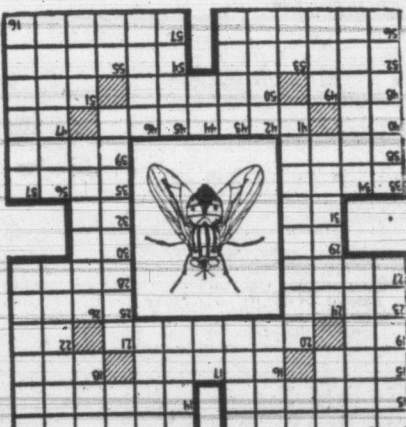

Carnation is good, whole, cows' milk, evaporated to double richness in all milk's food values. Homogenized and heat refined, for creamy-smoothness and rich flavor. The vitamin D is increased, to help children build normal, healthy bones and teeth.

Use it like cream. Undiluted Carnation is wonderful on cereals and fruits . . . in coffee . . . in cream recipes . . . for whipping.

For cooking or drinking. Restore the water by mixing half Carnation, half water, to equal good whole milk.

Dwindling Hopes For Comeback Attempt Of India's Communists

BOMBAY (Reuters) — Indian Communists are trying to stage a comeback to the political scene.

Well in advance of the republic's first general elections set for next November, they have launched a campaign to set up a "democratic" popular front of workers and peasants.

The campaign has been combined with a modest "reorientation" of Communist policy and tactics.

Political observers here consider it unlikely, however, that Indian Communists will be able to influence the elections to any appreciable extent. Internal party strife and stringent security laws will hamper them.

Tactics of secrecy and silence, the hall-marks of Communist activity, are accentuated in India where the party is under an official ban in two states and officially frowned on in many others.

The top-ranking Communist leaders, including the new general secretary of the party, are believed to have gone "underground."

Nevertheless, Indian Communists are active in several "pockets"—in Assam in the strtegic northeast, in Hyderabad in Central India and in Travancore-Cochin in the south.

The Indian Communist Party, whose paid membership is reported to have dwindled to one-tenth of its wartime strength of 250,000, now has appealed to the "very large number of comrades expelled on flimsy or baseless charges" to rejoin the party.

EXPLOIT NEHRU POLICY

The party is also exploiting Prime Minister Nehru's policy of friendship towards Red China to mobilize popular support for the Communists.

The Communist effort to stage a comeback is expected to reach a climax at a party congress to be held later in the year. The congress will put the final touches to the party's new manifesto, main points of which are:

1. Strengthening the alliance of the working classes with the peasantry to fight for agrarian reforms and against the Anglo-American "Imperialists," big business and princes.

2. Redrawing of state boundaries on a linguistic basis.

3. Abolition of large estates, without compensation, and confiscation of foreign capital in the country.

The Indian Communist Party is also said to favor a "united left-wing front." But the prospects of an alliance between Communists and other left-wing groups are considered extremely slim.

Communist stock with the common people of India remains low. In postwar years Communist activity has been largely concentrated on organizing strikes, prison riots, acid bulb attacks and sabotage of railways. More recently, the Communist Party has not come out in favor of India's foreign policy in general, and the Kashmir dispute in particular.
